

Democrats Not Greatest Enemy, President Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower says Republicans ought not to link Communists and Democrats in the same class when they line up to fight their enemies.

The President's admonition was delivered to the Republican National Committee Thursday after it unanimously had affirmed a subcommittee's choice of San Francisco as the site and Aug. 20 as the opening date for the 1956 presidential nominating convention.

The committee thanked Eisenhower for "an inspirational and heart-warming talk" and proceeded to assert in a resolution offered by former Sen. C. Wayland Brooks, Illinois member:

"Thanks to him (Eisenhower) and his unequalled leadership, we approach 1956 not only determined to win, but convinced that we will win because America wants and is determined to have the quality of government which Dwight D. Eisenhower and the Republican party have given it."

Maintaining silence on his own plans, the President told the delegates:

"Our greatest enemy is the Communists. Our great struggle today is a free world against a dictator world. Our greatest enemy is not the Democrats. So let's not build up a picture that the worst enemy anyone can have is a Democrat. We just don't think they can do as good as we do. As a matter of fact, we know it."

The President's remarks appeared directed at such GOP campaigners as Sen. McCarthy of Wisconsin, who assailed Democrats in speeches entitled "20 Years of Treason," and at others who have accused Democratic officials of being soft toward communism.

State May Set Up Scholarships

LANSING (AP)—Rep. Adrian de Boom (R-Owosso) Thursday proposed formation of a State Scholarship Board to grant aid to students of state-supported and private colleges.

De Boom asked the Legislature to set up a five-man board composed of the state superintendent of public instruction, presidents of two private colleges and the presidents of two state-supported colleges.

This board would be empowered to allot any money granted by the Legislature for scholarships. At present, scholarships are awarded from the budgets of the state institutions and endowments.

The House debated a resolution curbing the power of cities to install parking meters, but delayed a vote until next week.

Introduced by Rep. Manning Hathaway (D-Detroit), the measure calls for a vote this April on a constitutional amendment that would require cities to hold referenda before installing the meters.

A bill making it a misdemeanor to place dangerous objects on railroad tracks also passed the House.

Detroit Boy Admits Killing Of Girl, 9; Body Found In Pond

DETROIT (AP)—A distraught father lifted the slashed and battered body of his curly-haired 9-year-old daughter from an ice-rimmed pond Thursday night. Three hours later, a wayward 16-year-old youth admitted killing the girl, the prosecutor reported.

The victim was pretty Kathleen McLaughlin. Her body was found near her parents' spacious suburban home in fashionable Franklin Knolls.

Was Problem Child

Prosecutor Fred Ziem of adjoining Oakland County said Floyd Diamond, small for his age, admitted stabbing the child repeatedly with a jackknife and crushing her skull with a rock in a fit of passion that built up as he mauled her in roughhouse play.

The boy recently was released after a year in the Wayne County Training School. His stepmother Mrs. Marge Diamond said he had been a "problem child" who never got beyond the fourth grade.

The father, John J. McLaughlin, 42, found the body in the pond during a search about two hours after the child was last seen by her family.

The boys' formal statement to Ziem told what happened in those two hours:

Floyd, who lives three blocks from the McLaughlins, came by Kathleen's home and saw her playing. Together, they headed toward a skating pond near the home where the body was found. There they began scuffling and tripping each other. He knocked her down, and she called him a name.

Clothing Torn Off

That angered him. He slapped her hard. She ran toward the other pond but he caught her and tore off her jacket and blouse as she struggled in his grasp.

He fondled her upper body but she broke free and ran again. Again he caught her and fell on top of her with his open pocket knife in his hand. The first stabbing was "accidental." But the sight of blood did something to him and he stabbed the girl's body repeatedly until the blade of his pocket knife broke. Then he opened a smaller blade and slashed her more.

Then he dragged her by the leg to the pond. As her exposed body touched the icy water, she cried out. He grabbed a large rock and hit her three times on the head before abandoning her in the water.

Ziem said he probably will seek a waiver of juvenile court jurisdiction so Floyd can be prosecuted for murder.

Police closed in on the skating pond area immediately after the slaying was reported and began questioning every boy they saw. Floyd was one of many boys picked up in police cars for questioning. Officers, not satisfied with his answers, went to his home and found blood-soaked clothing under his bed. They said he immediately admitted the crime.

Eight Nations Join In Defense Plans For Southeast Asia

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles flies toward the Far East today with a roughed-out plan for an eight-nation military council to coordinate defenses against communism in Southeast Asia.

The blueprint has many details yet to be filled in. It includes four main goals for a conference opening next Wednesday at Bangkok, Thailand:

1. To set up an organization. The Southeast Asia Defense Treaty was signed last Sept. 8 at Manila and since then all eight participating nations have ratified it.

2. To build military security. The treaty area covers all of Southeast Asia and the western Pacific below Formosa, including the Indonesian states of Laos, Cambodia and Viet Nam. Each treaty nation is pledged to act "in accordance with its constitutional processes" against armed aggression in this area.

3. To create safeguards against subversion. Just how this is done has not been made clear.

4. To foster economic welfare. Again the outlook is clouded. Earlier talk about an American "Marshall Plan for Asia" or a more modest program of loans and grants has given way to "coordination of existing programs."

Top Communist To Avoid Trial; Going To Poland

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Polish Embassy said today Communist Poland will grant asylum to Irving Potash, a top U.S. Communist.

Potash served three years on conviction with 10 others of conspiring to teach and advocate the violent overthrow of the U.S. government. He announced at New York Thursday he would seek asylum in Poland rather than face another trial in this country. Potash said he would visit the Polish Embassy today to determine whether Poland would receive him.

The Polish Embassy said it was expecting Potash, a native of Russia who never became a U.S. citizen, but did not know when he would arrive.

An embassy spokesman said: "Arrangements are being made to grant him a visa."

The State Department declined comment until a check could be made into Potash's status.

Sen. Morse To Be Democrat In 1956

EUGENE, Ore. (AP)—Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon, the erstwhile Republican who became an independent in 1952, will run as a Democrat in 1956.

He changed his registration at his home town courthouse here Thursday, after flying out from Washington without announcing his intentions.

The Democrats welcomed him warmly. He drew cheers at a Democratic party rally when he announced on a statewide radio hookup Thursday night that he intends to run for re-election on the Democratic ticket.

Elected first in 1944 and again in 1950, Morse bolted from the Republicans in 1952, saying he no longer could go along with party policies. He campaigned for the Democrats that fall, and again in 1954, when he helped the Democratic newcomer, Richard L. Neuberger, win Oregon's other Senate seat.

Morse also voted with the Democrats in organizing the Senate, and drew important committee assignments. The Republicans had shorn him of major committee assignments after he left their party.

New Polio Hospital Dedicated Today In Los Angeles, Calif.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The world's most modern polio hospital will be dedicated today. The 4½ million dollar edifice is largely a monument to the civic devotion of a movie magnate who once watched helplessly as his daughter lay near death in an overcrowded polio ward.

The eight-story communicable diseases unit of the Los Angeles County General Hospital will be in use in another month or so.

Although taxpayers footed the bill through a bond issue, doctors and hospital officials give much of the credit to Don Hartman, head of production at Paramount Pictures.

In 1948, an epidemic year, Hartman's eldest daughter, Mima, then 17, was confined to the overcrowded polio ward at General Hospital.

After she recovered, her father and James Simmons, an airline executive who also had relatives in the ward, formed a citizens committee to get a bond issue passed for a new hospital.

Air Force General Dies At Suttons Bay

TRAVERSE CITY (AP)—Brig. Gen. George F. Schulgen, assistant chief of the air staff prior to his retirement in 1948, died Thursday of a heart attack at his Leelanau County home at Suttons Bay.

Schulgen served as chief of the First Air Force during World War II and in 1944 was named director of air plans and strategy on the staff of Lord Louis Mountbatten in India. He returned to the Pentagon in 1945.

Peeping Tom Admits Confession Faked In Co-ed Rape Slaying

DETROIT (AP)—Police discount as worthless the confession of a 34-year-old convicted Peeping Tom in the investigation of the two-year-old rape slaying of co-ed JoAnn Gillespie.

Marvin Lane, chief of detectives, said Friday an intensive police investigation and the findings of three psychiatrists show Richard Ballingall of Detroit was innocent of the crime.

Monday, Ballingall retracted his confession saying he was "confused."

Michigan GOP Split At State Convention

Trade Expansion Tariff Cut Bill Nears House OK

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's embattled program designed to expand free world trade by lowering U.S. tariffs moved toward expected House passage late today.

But protective tariff forces, after a surprising show of strength Thursday, said there were good prospects that they could water down the administration bill.

Eisenhower reportedly planned a last-minute appeal for support through a message to be read by House Minority Leader Martin (R-Mass).

Margin On One Vote

It took three roll calls within 2½ hours Thursday merely to establish procedure for considering the bill. In the windup, supporters of the program succeeded by only one vote, 193-192, in adopting a rule which limits foes to offering just one amendment.

But in the tentative first test, supporters were startled by a 28-vote licking. It appeared then the bill would be opened to a flood of trade-restricting amendments. The picture was reversed only after Speaker of the House Rayburn (D-Tex.) stepped down from the rostrum to plead for the limitation.

On each roll call, a majority of Republicans voted against the procedure curbing amendments. A majority of democrats supported it. Democrats did most of the shifting to save the day for supporters of the trade program.

Competition For Industry

The bill would extend for three more years the President's power to negotiate reciprocal trade agreements, under which the United States cuts tariffs on foreign goods coming into this country in exchange for reductions in trade barriers to American products shipped abroad.

Most of the tariff-cutting authority under the present law has been exhausted. The new bill would permit the President to cut rates an additional 5 per cent each year for three years. He could make even bigger cuts in some cases.

Eisenhower and his supporters in Congress argue this would help U.S. allies sell more goods here, help Americans sell more abroad, and knit the free world closer together in every way.

Opponents claim that increased imports might undermine competing American industries.

Ferguson Slated To Be Ambassador To Philippines

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former Senator Homer Ferguson (R-Mich.) is slated to become ambassador to the Philippines, according to highly placed and usually reliable Washington sources.

Ferguson said any comment would have to come from the White House. The White House declined comment. Usually ambassadorial nominations are not announced until sent to the Senate for confirmation.

If nominated, Ferguson would succeed Adm. Raymond A. Spruance, who has served since Navy retirement in 1952.

Customarily the Senate gives unanimous confirmation without a hearing to former senators nominated for governmental appointment.

Ambassadors receive $20,000.

Party Control Major Issue At Detroit Meeting

DETROIT (AP)—Michigan Republicans will concentrate the fight over control of their party at their State Convention Friday night and Saturday.

Torn by dissension after their worst election defeat in 18 years, the party's delegates will decide whether to carry on under the chairmanship of John Feikens of Detroit—or switch to Arthur T. Iverson of Detroit, former Deputy Attorney General and long-time influence in Wayne County circles.

Feikens Won't Quit

Real reason for the convention will be to nominate state candidates for the April 4 election.

Also a new State Central Committee will be chosen and the organization perfected which will carry the party through the next presidential campaign.

But all eyes were turned on the Feikens-Iverson rivalry—a representative of a split within the party.

Feikens, who presided over the party at its disastrous Nov. 4 election defeat—lost every state ballot office—has announced he would not withdraw under fire.

Feikens said he would stay in the fight to provide leadership for the younger and liberal elements of the party—the so-called Eisenhower bloc.

Iverson has carefully avoided the label of anti-Eisenhower and no one has been able to successfully pin it on him.

Brownell Keynotes

His election probably would be considered a victory for the Republican Old Guard, but it would be a victory well-mixed with plain ordinary disgruntlement at the party's lack of ballot box success.

The convention will get under way at 11 a.m. Saturday, but the big battles will be fought in hotel rooms Friday night.

U.S. Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield, former national committeeman, will be back to lend his advice and address convention. The keynote will be U. S. Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell.

Dr. Clair L. Taylor, state superintendent of public instruction, appears to be unopposed for renomination.

No candidates have shown yet against the renomination of Stephen S. Nisbet of Fremont for State Board of Education.

State Supreme Court Justice Leland W. Carr of Lansing will be renominated, while a race shapes for the other Supreme Court vacancy.

Herbert Unopposed

Those mentioned for the spot include former State Treasurer D. Hale Brake of Stanton, Circuit Judge John Simpson of Jackson, Pontiac Judge Arthur E. Moore of Pontiac, Circuit Judge Herman Dehnke of Harrisville, Charles H. King, dean of the Detroit College of Law, former La. Gov. Clarence A. Reid of Detroit and Arthur

Britain Dickers For U. S. Weapon

WASHINGTON (AP)—Great Britain, with much of her guided missile program still in the development stage, has been talking with the United States about buying some American weapons.

The talks, still in preliminary phases with any formal negotiations yet to follow, involve the U.S. Army's Corporal missile, a Defense Department spokesman said today in answer to a reporter's inquiries.

The Corporal is a "surface-to-surface" missile, intended for bombardment of enemy targets at ranges greater than are covered by conventional artillery.

There has been speculation that the Corporal can strike with effective accuracy up to 40 or 50 miles. The Army says its range is "far beyond" that of artillery, which covers up to 30 miles with big guns.

County Delegations Urge Williams To Run For President In '56

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—Democrats in Muskegon and Ottawa counties Thursday night passed resolutions urging Gov. Williams to be a candidate for President in 1956.

The resolution of the Muskegon County Democratic Convention asked Williams to "present himself to the people in 1956 as their candidate for President," but qualified this with a suggestion that he accepted the party's vice presidential nomination if the 1956 Democratic National Convention delegates so prefer.

The Ottawa County Democratic Convention gave Williams unqualified endorsement as a Presidential candidate.

The resolution of the Muskegon Democrats had opposition.

Ben Marcus, Muskegon attorney, said he felt Williams has been a "good governor" but bluntly expressed himself as doubtful that

Williams is "qualified to be President."

The Muskegon Democrats acclaimed the recent agreement looking to a merger of the AFL and CIO, and instructed its delegation to offer a resolution approving the proposed merger at the Democratic State Convention in Grand Rapids Feb. 26.

Kent County Democrats were silent on Williams' availability as a Presidential candidate.

"A resolution of this kind might embarrass the governor," one influential Kent County delegate remarked.

The resolutions of the Kent Democratic Convention omitted the usual denunciation of Republicans at Washington. They overlooked the clean sweep of top state offices by Democrats in the 1954 election and said Republicans have "dominated" Michigan politics so long that the state GOP has become "a menace to progress" and "a detriment to the general welfare."

Hatchet Attacker Gets 25 Years

CLOVIS, N. M. (AP)—Odell Jeffries faces 25 years in the state prison after pleading guilty Thursday to attacking 14-year-old Janice Wells with a hatchet.

The 19-year-old Negro confessed to the attack Wednesday night.

Mrs. Aileen Wells, mother of the victim, broke down at the arraignment and cried, "He didn't get nearly enough. My daughter will be scarred for life."

Janice, still in Clovis Hospital, was struck several times on the face with the hatchet. Jeffries broke down the door of the home and attacked her. He told police he didn't know why he did it.

Bad Weather Again Delays Atomic Test At Las Vegas, Nev.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Bad weather today again delayed, at least for a few hours, the opening blast of the 1955 atomic test series.

The plane drop of an atomic device, originally set for 9:30 a.m. CST, was postponed until 12 noon p.m. at an early morning weather conference.

Because of the weather, test chiefs earlier had decided against a powerful predawn tower shot, in favor of an air drop in daylight.

Formosa Warships Chop Up Red Convoy

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Chinese Nationalist warships and planes pounced on a Chinese Communist troop and supply convoy in the East China Sea today and the Defense Ministry claimed at least 21 vessels were sunk.

If the Nationalist claims are confirmed, it would be the most severe defeat they have ever administered the Reds.

Islands Bombarded

The ministry said the Reds lost eight landing craft, five gunboats and eight armed motorized junks, plus other unspecified craft. The landing craft were believed to be carrying about 200 soldiers each.

The ministry said the Nationalist warplanes also swooped down in an attack on the Red-held Taishan Islands, destroying eight barracks and causing heavy Communist casualties.

A ministry spokesman said the Red flotilla was cruising southward toward the Taishans when the Nationalist warships intercepted it. After the Nationalist navy reported seven landing craft and possibly three gun boats sunk, Chiang Kai-shek's warplanes raced over the sea to take on the survivors.

The ministry said none of the Nationalist ships was lost. The sea battle erupted off the Chekiang province coast about 130 miles northwest of Formosa between the Nationalist northern outpost of Nanchishan and Red-held Taishan Island.

Contractor Killed By Sewer Cave-In

DETROIT (AP)—Joseph Longo, 55, a sewer contractor, died Thursday in a sewer trench cave-in in suburban Roseville.

He was trapped to the shoulders and suffered a crushed chest.

The Red convoy was spotted at 7:50 a.m. moving southward from the Wenchow Bay area. Two warships and four gunboats were conveying eight landing ships each capable of carrying 200 troops.

In the first 30 minutes of action, seven Red landing craft were sunk. Col. Lu Ta of the Defense Ministry said. He reported three of the four Red gunboats were set afire and possibly sunk.

Lawmakers Take Four-Day Junket

LANSING (AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee leaves next week on a four-day junket to state institutions.

The itinerary: Monday — Northern Michigan Tuberculosis Sanatorium, (Gaylord) Sault Branch, Michigan College of Mining and Technology, Sault Ste. Marie.

Tuesday — Newberry State Hospital, State House of Corrections and Branch Prison, Marquette.

Wednesday — Northern Michigan College of Education, Marquette. Thursday — Michigan College of Mining and Technology, Houghton; Copper Country Tuberculosis Sanatorium, Houghton.

Businessman Urges City To Keep Electric System

Harold W. "Pat" Gasman, Escanaba businessman and former city councilman, appeared before the Escanaba City Council last night to ask that an election for the proposed sale of the electric utility be stopped and urged the city keep the utility as a source of revenue to avoid higher property taxes.

Mayor Harlan Yelland observed that if the people want to sell the utility they may do so, or they can refuse to sell it. The people should decide the question, not the City Council, he said. The Council in submitting the question to referendum has only followed provisions of the city charter, he added.

City Councilman Edward J. Cox, who with Councilman Wesley Hansen had voted against the referendum motion, said that he is still opposed to the election because not one Escanaba citizen has come before the Council asking for such an election.

Cite 'Misstatements'

George Erdman, city fireman, asked to be heard on the subject. He contended that the ballot for the sale of the electric system has been prepared by the private utility wanting to buy it, that the value of good will has not been considered in the price offered by the private utility.

Earlier in the meeting Councilman Hansen and Councilman Cox had protested advertising "misstatements" by the Upper Peninsula Power Company in connection with its campaign to purchase the electric utility. The advertisement stated the Council had "approved" the proposition which was incorrect, since the Council had only referred it to the people for a vote, said Councilman Hansen.

Gasman appeared before the Council "as a citizen only" and not representing any group. "I am a member of a group known as the Save Our Electric System Volunteers, but they are not aware of my being here."

He asked the Council to rescind its motion for a vote on the sale of the utility, and said that recent developments "make it more necessary that we keep our distribution system."

Valuable To City

"I refer to the fact that the State Tax Commission is right now in the process of determining whether or not our assessed valuation in this county is in balance with other counties. I believe that you will agree, as does everyone else to whom I have talked, that our assessed valuation will be increased, thereby increasing our real estate taxes.

"If the distribution system is sold, we will continue to pay our present electric rates and will pay more real estate tax, too," Gasman said. "However, if we keep our electric distribution system we can reduce our electric rate to offset any increase in real estate taxes. The people of Escanaba would therefore be paying no more — except, of course, the amount for county and schools.

"Then, too, I think you will agree that this affair has gone and will continue to go far beyond what was expected," Gasman continued. "The private monopoly has been and apparently will continue to spend a vast amount of money. Does it occur to you that if they are willing and anxious to spend these large sums, hiring expensive promotion men to do it, that this must be a very valuable system that we have? If it is so valuable we, the people of Escanaba, should keep it."

Price Too Low?

"And speaking of value, from what I can find out, no one knows exactly what the value of the electric utility is," Gasman said. "There has never been an appraisal of it. Everyone I've talked to is of the opinion that it is worth much more than $1,200,000. General opinion seems to be that it is worth much more than double that figure. Yet you are willing to take a chance of losing our most valuable asset for a figure pulled out of a hat.

"If you want to sell a piece of city equipment, an old beat-up truck, you advertise for bids. If you have a lot somewhere in the city that you wish to sell, you advertise for bids. And you get a deposit from the bidder to guarantee his good faith in bidding," Gasman said. "Yet without knowing its value you agree to let the people decide whether or not we should sell our most valuable asset for such a small sum."

In conclusion, Gasman said that he was and is for "free enterprise" but the sale of the city's electric distribution system would create a "private monopoly."

Russian Atom Bomb Wouldn't End World, Says CDA Director

BATTLE CREEK (AP)—An atomic attack by Russia would not mean the end of the world, says Val Peterson, director of the Federal Civil Defense Administration.

Peterson, speaking Thursday at a news conference organized by the Battle Creek Enquirer and News, said, "There is nothing hopeless about the situation. There is no reason for panic or hysteria. There are defenses — simple defenses."

At the same time, he added soberly, the hydrogen bomb and its resulting radioactive fallout have vastly extended the range of the H-bomb's peril to human life.

"The significance of fallout," Peterson said, "is that an atomic attack is no longer the exclusive concern of large cities. It is now a life-or-death matter to farmers, ranchers and small-town residents who thought they were safe because they don't live in a primary target area."

However, he said, "there are mitigating factors in the behavior of such fallout.

One, he said, is that radioactivity lasts only from a few hours to several days and wears off quickly. "It does not destroy earth and all on it," he said.

Peterson said another factor is that such dust can be washed off easily, provided a person has not been heavily exposed.

For shelter, Peterson recommended the old-fashioned underground cyclone cellars, preferably about three feet underground built for $180.

Peterson announced that the ECDA will stage a national test exercise June 15-16 in which it will be presumed that 43 cities in the industrial heartland of the nation will be hit by an atomic attack.

Electrical Union Hears Powell On Power Proposal

The Upper Peninsula Power Company will employ as many Escanaba workers as possible in the construction of its proposed new power plant, L. D. Powell, power firm district manager, told Local 979 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers at Labor Hall Thursday night.

Powell and Reuben Carne, assistant to the general superintendent, described in detail Upper Peninsula's proposed program of bringing a complete power supply to Escanaba.

"For each 100 persons employed," Powell related, "an additional $300,000 to $500,000 income is brought into the community. In turn the community benefits from a broadened tax base for both the individual and industry."

Powell assured the union members that all present city electrical employees, as well as those of the Upper Michigan Power Company involved, would be employed as a unit.

"The city and Upper Michigan employees involved all will be given equivalent or better jobs and each will retain his seniority. In addition they will work together as a unit and not be split up," Powell stated.

On Sunday William L. Veese, head of the Upper Peninsula Power Company's land and forestry department and Powell, will discuss the power problem before the Croatian Society at their hall.

John H. Warden, president of the Upper Peninsula Power Company will discuss the company's plan to solve the Escanaba power situation before the Kiwanis Club at the House of Ludington on Monday noon. He also will meet with the supervisory group of the Escanaba Paper Company Monday night at the same place.

Also on Monday night, Veese and Powell will speak before Cloverland Post No. 82, American Legion, at the post clubrooms.

Youth Is Bound To Circuit Court On Robbery Charge

William M. Otis, 18, of Duluth, who has been employed in Escanaba until recently, yesterday was bound to Delta County circuit court on a robbery unarm charge in connection with a theft from a tavern.

Arraigned yesterday in Justice Caroline Nystrom court, Otis waived examination and is held in jail in default of $3,000 bond.

It is charged that Otis robbed Gus Sanders, proprietor of the Friendly Tavern, 1408 Ludington St. of three bottles of wine and $56.76 in cash early Thursday morning. Escanaba police arrested Otis in the alley north of the tavern shortly after the alleged robbery.

Otis has been a member of the Hawks hockey team, attended Escanaba Senior High School mornings and was employed afternoons.

Woods Industries To Hold Meeting

The wood industries of Wisconsin and Upper Michigan, consisting of manufacturers of lumber, hardwood veneer and plywood, and maple flooring, have scheduled their annual meeting to be held at King's Gateway Hotel, Land o'Lakes, Wis., on Feb. 23, according to Allen S. Haukom, secretary-manager of the Northern Hemlock and Hardwood Manufacturers Association, Oshkosh, Wis.

An analysis of future business conditions will include discussion of the famous Weyerhaeuser report which predicts consumption and growth of timber up to 1975.

Of timely importance is work on the St. Lawrence waterway project which will be explained by John Beukema of Muskegon, member of the Great Lakes Harbor Association.

Attendance of 100 to 150 members and guests is expected. Diamond Pole and Piling Company and Birds Eye Veneer Company of Escanaba; Shepeck Dimension and Lumber Company, Wells; Atlas Plywood Company of Gladstone are members of the Association.

NATIVE PLANTS

Only native U. S. plants still directly used in agriculture are pecans, blueberries, cranberries, raspberries, Concord grapes, sunflowers, some plums, and some strawberries.

Council Ignores Lot Sale Protest

Despite requests that it reconsider and delay its action to sell city shore lots, the Escanaba City Council last night moved to offer for public sale seven lots opposite the Athletic Field.

The Planning Commission had twice recommended against sale of the area. Unanimously deciding to sell, the Council asked the Planning Commission to prepare a plat for the lots, which was presented to the Council last night.

Deed restrictions will prevent the lots from being divided or from having more than one dwelling on them; and two easements for storm sewers will be reserved by the city when the lots are sold.

Delay Is Asked

The Armory Committee named by the City Council to handle an Armory building project, which is planned to combine public recreation facilities as well, last night in a letter to the Council asked delay in selling the lots.

James G. Ward Jr., Armory Committee chairman, advised the Council that a site south of the Athletic Field is one of several being considered for the Armory, and asked that sale of the lots be delayed until a final decision is made on the Armory site.

The Council received and filed a petition signed by 60 residents of the area asking the Council to reconsider its decision to sell the shore front area zoned for a park. The petitioners pointed out that the area was zoned by the city as a public park and influenced many residents to build in that section and to improve their property.

Open Bids March 17

They noted that the area is rapidly developing as a residential section and that sale of park lands is ill-advised and short-sighted at this time. The land can always be sold, but public park land cannot always be obtained, the petitioners said.

On motion of Councilman Robert E. LeMire the Council set a minimum price of $25 per front foot on lots without easements and $20 per front foot on lots with easements.

The motion to authorize the city manager to advertise the lots for sale, with sealed bids to be opened at the Council meeting to be held March 17, was made by Councilman LeMire, supported by Councilman Wesley Hansen. The motions were unanimously adopted.

Marquette Folks Interested In TV Satellite Station

MARQUETTE — "There's a lot of interest in the proposed construction of a satellite television transmitter for the city."

So states City Commissioner Harold W. Alholm, who first brought up the matter at the January 31 meeting.

Alholm also started a discussion of the satellite TV transmitter at this week's Commission meeting, at which he turned in petitions, signed by 1,000 residents, asking for the erection of the satellite station.

Today Alholm said there are more petitions being circulated, regarding the miniature transmitter, and that at least 1,000 more persons have signed them.

Actually Small Stations

A satellite television transmitter actually is a small station, designed to provide video reception in areas where good signals are blocked by mountains, natural obstacles or distance.

The satellite system was developed by Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., and transmits signals from one or more distant television stations.

It amplifies these signals and re-transmits them on a different television channel, enabling them to reach homes where the original signal would not have been received.

According to Alholm's information, the Federal Communications Commission has authorized the operation of ultra high frequency satellite stations which do not propose to originate any local programs.

Low Operating Costs

Alholm stated that the Sylvania company said there would be no interference to existing or potential broadcast stations, since the regular TV broadcast channels would be used.

Estimated cost of a satellite station is between $15,000 and $20,000, Alholm said, and because of low-power requirements the operating costs would be correspondingly low.

The commissioner said he has heard from officials of the Sylvania Corporation, regarding the city's query on the system, and that the company said it would send its best qualified engineer and operator to Marquette to meet with the Commission as soon as they obtain permission from the F. C. C. to come here for that purpose.

Conservation Problems Aired

MARQUETTE — A conservation education workshop was held Wednesday at the Northern Michigan College of Education and was attended by about 100 participants.

Representatives included school administrators, teachers, members of public and private agencies, businessmen, and other interested people.

Some of the purposes of the conference were to find ways to further promote and improve conservation education in the schools and to broaden the scope of assisting teachers in their conservation teaching at all grade levels and in all classes.

2nd Conference In U. P.

This was the second in a series of three such conferences being held in the Upper Peninsula sponsored jointly by the Conservation Department and the Department of Public Instruction.

Dorais J. Curry, Marquette, regional chief, Department of Conservation, is regional chairman of the three conferences.

The first meeting was held at Newberry on Tuesday and the third was held at Iron Mountain on Thursday.

Paul Kotila, principal of Gravelaet High School and chairman of this workshop, welcomed the participants and introduced some of the resource persons.

"Everybody's Business"

Dr. Justin Leonard, director of research administration, Conservation Department, delivered the keynote address. In his speech, he stressed the fact that "Conservation is everybody's business."

He stated that teachers are already overburdened with work and so, in many cases, the "let George do it" attitude sometimes prevails. He cited ignorance, apathy, and prejudice as the three hindrances to conservation education.

Increasing populations will make greater demands on our resources, he said. Yet no one wants our standard of living to drop, he noted. Some optimists say that scientists and technologists will solve this problem of feeding the increasing numbers and cite the using of algae as a future source of food, he stated.

"It is not the intent in resource management to just keep soul and body together," Dr. Leonard added, "but also to enjoy living."

Problems "Many, Complex"

Conservation problems are many and complex, and so interrelated that one resource cannot be managed without affecting the others. "We need constructive programs that will tie into the individual lives and communities in all areas," he said. "This is a problem for everybody."

A panel discussion on problem areas in conservation followed. R. D. Burroughs, conservation - education supervisor, Conservation Department, Lansing, acted as chairman of the panel.

Burroughs stated that we must find ways of overcoming the lack of training and confidence on the part of teachers in order to have more effective and increased conservation teaching in the classroom.

Chiang's Nationalist Dream Could Collapse Without Fall Of Formosa

NOW that the Tachen Islands have been successfully evacuated without incident, we face the far more difficult dilemma of what to do about the Quemoy and Matsu islands off the China mainland. It will be something of a minor miracle if we can solve this problem without damage to our cause.

We start, of course, with the proposition that we are determined to defend and hold Formosa and the adjacent Pescadore.

Second, it is our plan to use American air and naval forces in this defense, but to rely on Chinese Nationalist ground troops rather than commit our own.

Third, should the Nationalist troops fail in their assignment for one reason or another, we would be faced with the choice of abandoning Formosa to the Communists or throwing American soldiers into the breach.

This brings us right to the sticker: Whether the Nationalist Chinese have the will to carry out their Formosa assignment may very likely depend on the fate of the Matsus and Quemoy.

The American military view is that

Words, Wit & Wisdom

By William Morris

Judging by the mail, quite a few of my readers are collectors of "spoonerisms," those tricky slips of the tongue which, by the transposition of just a few letters, can often result in hilarity for everyone but the speaker. They got their name from the late Rev. W. A. Spooner of Oxford who was given to such inadvertent utterances as "Kinkering Congs their titles take" and "It is kistomary to cuss the bride."

In a recent VARIETY, Jo Ransom shows that spoonerisms are still with us by passing on the fluff made by a network announcer when introducing one of the more pontifical of our oracular newscasters. "We proudly present," he said, "the newwed nose analyst..."

And then there was that amusing story out of Philadelphia recently about the ten-year who phoned his girl friend but got her father, a college professor, on the wire. "I'm sorry," he was told, "but Susan is slightly indisposed and has already retired."

"I thought he meant she'd been bad and was sent to bed," he told his friends, "until I looked it up in the dictionary!"

And here's a letter from Orson Lowell of New Rochelle, N. Y., enclosing a clipping from a literary supplement in which he has encircled a single word "scunner." "It's a new word—new to me," he writes. "It might be prejudice or grudge or allergy or antipathy or—well, you'll know. Help!"

Such a simple word, scunner—or, as it's sometimes spelled, skunner—let it's one which, as my correspondent notes, is rarely seen in print. Originally a Scottish dialect word, it means dislike, aversion, or antipathy. When one "takes a scunner to" another person, he just plain doesn't like him at all.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

There's been a new rash of stories lately about tight-lipped Englishmen. One, for instance, concerns two crooked, but very formal, Londoners who had shared the same prison cell for over six years. One's reserve finally broke down and he assured the other, "No need to call me 'Number 855628' from now on. Henceforth, to you, old boy, I'm plain 855!"

The other has it that two proper Oxonians were adrift for two days in the empty sea when their ship went down. One finally broke the silence by venturing, "I know we've never been formally introduced, my dear chap, but could you give me some idea of the nearest way to Southampton?"

Charlie Poore, star book critic for the New York Times, quotes an earnest little

The Doctor Says... No Sure-Fire Remedies Can Stop Graying Hair

By EDWIN P. JORDAN M. D. — Written for NEA Service

Each year I receive a good many inquiries, principally from elderly men, regarding a common disorder known as enlargement of the prostate. Sometimes these letters refer to symptoms and the writer does not seem to know what is at fault. On other occasions the correspondent clearly knows where the trouble lies but does not know what to do about it.

It should be said at first that simple enlargement of the prostate—hypertrophy—is associated with increasing age. The prostate is a sex gland lying at the outlet of the bladder, and if it enlarges instead of shrinking (as it does in some) its increase in size tends to interfere with the free flow of urine.

WHEN THIS OCCURS the first sign of difficulty may be getting up at night more often. Sometimes it starts with delay and difficulty in beginning urination. This is frequently associated with incomplete emptying of the bladder which leads to thickening of the bladder wall, lessened ability to hold the urine and increasing frequency.

The amount of pain, irritation, and local discomfort present from enlargement of the prostate varies from man to man. The sleep can be disturbed and, just as these islands are useful but not essential to the protection of Formosa. But to Chiang Kai-shek and his men, they are the last remaining visible props supporting the Nationalist dream of a return to the mainland. Let them fall, and the dream will collapse.

If that should happen, the general belief in official Washington is that the Nationalists' morale would also crumble. Chiang's men are Chinese and their one sustaining thread is the hope of going home. They are not eager to defend Formosa unless that operation is linked with a return to the mainland.

If their morale were to disintegrate, the ground defense of Formosa might be feeble. Worse, there might be sweeping defections among Nationalists who saw that course as the one way to get back home. It would not be the first time defections had played an important part in the long Chinese civil war. In the mainland combat which ended in 1949, the Nationalists often yielded men and arms to the Reds in wholesale lots.

Evidently we don't want to defend the Quemoy and Matsus on the very doorstep of Red China. But if we don't, we may soon face a showdown on the future of Chiang's armies, which we selfishly view as useful in the free world's defense.

Yet perhaps this is a crisis that is fast approaching anyway. Even granting that the Quemoy and Matsus were held, one may wonder how long Chiang and his aging forces could cling to the fragile notion they are going back to overthrow the Reds by force.

Maybe we ought to let the dream be exposed for the empty thing it is, and begin making new calculations for the land defense of Formosa. The Nationalists just might surprise us and decide that freedom there is better than slavery at home.

CANADIANS MEAN BUSINESS

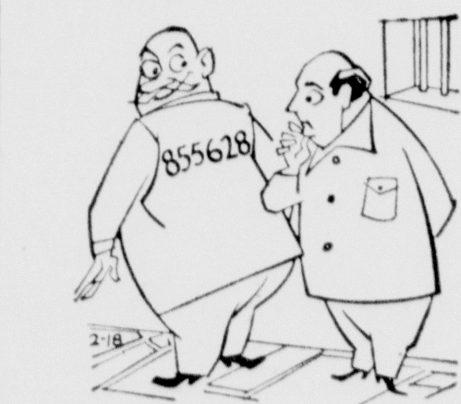

(Green Bay Press Gazette)

Our Canadian neighbors are preparing to reap the full benefits from the St. Lawrence Seaway in a go-getter spirit.

The Canadian share of the cost of the seaway and the hydro-electric development will be about $310 million. But this may be only a small part of the total when all of the related projects are considered. The seaway is expected to bring water transport carrying some 50 million tons of cargo, and plans are now being made for factories to process this raw material. The 2,200,000 electric horsepower will be available for use in the factories.

For the Canadians the coming of the seaway is a welcome event and they are meeting it with enthusiasm but not without careful planning. In fact their planning has been going on for 30 years or more and they are ready. They have a scale model covering in detail a total of 35 miles of shore where the hydro-electric developments are planned.

The seaway will mean as much or more to American cities on the lakes and should be greeted with the same enthusiastic but careful planning.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Conducting the immediate military strategy of the United States in the Far East is increasingly difficult for President Eisenhower because of the needling tactics being adopted by certain "left wing" senators.

Despite the overwhelming vote in the Senate and House two weeks ago which plainly reflected the wish of the country that the handling of such a delicate question as the defense of islands off the shores of China be left entirely to the discretion of President Eisenhower, some of the senators who fought the Formosa resolution are keeping up their guerrilla fight in the press.

The President and his military advisers are anxious not to give the Communist high command details of American military planning in the Far East. But, if some of the senators have their way, military information will be transmitted to the Communists through the press indicating exactly what the United States armed forces will or will not do in the Far East.

Nothing could make the situation more dangerous than to let the Communists believe that Mr. Eisenhower is being effectively checkmated by a group of senators and that eventually he will acquiesce in the capture by the Reds of the offshore islands through a failure to assist in their defense.

SITUATION COMPLEX

What the President has been trying to do is to stabilize the Formosa situation so that a cease-fire could be seriously considered. But the surest way to start a war in the Far East is to let the Communists believe they can grab the offshore islands without any resistance. Such a move can only result in a vigorous defense by the Nationalists and then, if the Communists start using airpower to bomb the Formosa bases used by the Nationalists planes as they go out to defend Quemoy and the Matsus Islands against attacks from the air, a war would break out and American forces would surely become involved. A considerable body of Nationalist troops is on the offshore islands now.

There is no mystery about the position in which the United States finds itself in seeking primarily to protect Formosa against air attack. The Communists would never invade Quemoy or the Matsus Islands without using airpower, and they would not confine their air attacks to those islands either but would have to go after the bases on Formosa. So, for all practical purposes, the use of American airpower in retaliation or defense is related solely to how the Communists use their airpower and whether or not they limit it to attacks on the offshore islands.

The situation is full of complexities and the delicate problems involved should be left to the commander-in-chief in the White House. It is incredible that any members of Congress should be publicly demanding that the President reveal the defense plans of the United States in the middle of a critical situation that could bring about fighting at any moment. The Senate took cognizance of all the contingencies and voted the President ample power to deal with them. Some senators who are now asking for more details and "clarification" opposed the recently passed resolution on the ground that the President already had sufficient authority to do what seemed best. Now they question that authority.

NEED DISCRETION

The only explanation for the present behavior of the "left wing" senators is that they have allowed partisanship to sway their public statements and that they are trying to embarrass the President for political purposes. The fear was expressed during the last campaign that, if the Democrats won control, they would take advantage of their position to play politics with foreign policy. Many of them, like Senator George, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, are cooperating with the administration, but the needling tactics of a "left wing" group of Democrats is a sample of what a divided government can mean in a crisis.

If the object is to save American lives—and that's the highest purpose for either political party to serve—then such an objective can better be realized by keeping as much military information as possible away from the potential enemy.

Basically the United States is not concerned with any faction in China as such—either the Reds or the Nationalists—but is concerned over the fact that the Chinese Communists are in a state of war with the United Nations, and if they take Formosa they can turn their entire armed force against American troops stationed in Korea.

It's important, therefore, to keep as much of the Communist Chinese armies as possible pinned down on the mainland opposite Formosa and to keep them guessing as to what will happen if they attack Quemoy and the Matsus Islands. But there are some senators who don't believe in this strategy and, in effect, want to interfere in military operations. This is a peculiar way to act in the midst of a military crisis involving decisions by a man in the White House with General Eisenhower's military experience.

Fast Carriers Pack Deadliest Punch In Fleet Off Formosa

WASHINGTON —(NEA)— The fast carrier task force off Formosa is the most modern, efficient and deadly weapons system which can be assembled on the sea.

It represents billions of dollars worth of ships, planes, atomic weapons, guided missiles, conventional armament, elaborate communications and electronic gear.

It's supported by a gigantic air and surface supply system capable of keeping it patrolling or fighting for as long as the crisis there might last.

The speed with which this major element of the Seventh Fleet was beefed up and moved into best tactical position for covering evacuation of Nationalist troops from Tachen, halting a Communist invasion of Formosa, or, if necessary, exchanging first blows of a major war, is the task force's complete justification, the Navy believes.

The Formosa crisis proved dramatically the flexibility and potency of this weapon idea. Navy spokesmen point out. There's no eventuality it couldn't cope with, they claim.

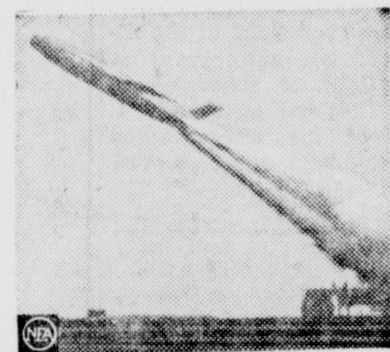

Most dramatic, deadly action of any hostilities in the Formosa area would be aerial combat, probably between Russian-built MIG-15, which the Chinese Reds have, and fighter planes of the U. S. fleet.

The new F9F-6 Cougar is the plane which would go aloft to tangle with the MIG. The Cougar climbs as fast as the MIG, turns in as tight a circle, and has a higher ceiling. It's faster than the MIG—close to supersonic—has superior fire power and an effective combat radius of over 500 miles.

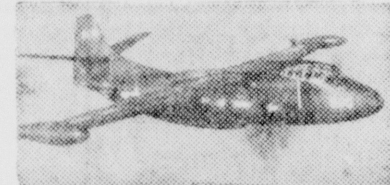

Every combat plane with the fleet, including the Cougar, can deliver atomic bombs. But the huge North American AJ Savage, with two conventional piston engines and one jet, is capable of carrying the larger types of A-bombs and several of the smaller ones. It is the largest plane which operates off carriers.

The Savage flies at extremely high altitudes and can drop its bombs—nuclear or otherwise—by radar at night or during zero-zero weather conditions.

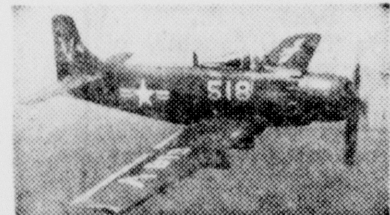

The so-called work horse of the fleet is the Douglas AD Skyraider.

GUIDED MISSILES like Regulus, here zooming from Princeton, are in 7th Fleet's arsenal.

PISTON-JET AJ can carry larger type A-bomb, is biggest plane operating from carriers.

WORK HORSE of the fleet is the Skyraider with bigger bomb load than World War II B-17.

er, a single, piston-engine plane which carries a bigger bomb load than the B-17 of World War II.

Other aircraft of the task force include those doing anti-submarine patrolling, reconnaissance, photography, night interception and search and rescue.

The unit off Formosa is composed of four attack carriers—Essex, Wasp, Yorktown and Kearsage—four cruisers and up to 50 destroyers. When the crisis arose additional units were dispatched to the area, including the large carrier Midway and the attack carrier Princeton. Exact strength of the task force is kept secret.

Guided missiles integrated with the rest of the force's fire power include the ground-to-ground Regulus, the ground-to-air Terrier, and the air-to-air Sparrow, all weapons which have become operational since the end of the Korean War.

The Regulus can carry an atomic warhead, its performance is short of pinpoint accuracy on long-range targets, but it could be used effectively under many circumstances.

Critics of the carrier task force concept claim that it's too vulnerable to atomic attack and enemy subs. But the Navy has the answer to both of these charges.

It does not operate as the gigantic, massed force the way it did so effectively in the Pacific in World War II. Today it's dispersed so that a direct atomic hit on one carrier or one cruiser would not damage other main units.

And its anti-sub weapons and electronic defenses are vast and effective. One of the most successful of these complex devices is a listening apparatus dunked into the water by helicopters hovering around the perimeter of the fleet.

It has also been said that any carriers caught in the Formosa Strait when serious shooting started would be sitting ducks for enemy land-based planes.

The answer to this, the Navy claims, is that there is no need for carriers to enter the Strait. Their planes have plenty of range to take on all assignments and operate from carriers in the open sea east of Formosa.

A final potential of the task force in this case is close cooperation with the air force of the Nationalist government, which includes squadrons of F-86 Sabre-jets. There have been extensive exercises over the past month with U. S. and Chinese pilots maneuvering under a joint command.

As a result any action in the area would include well-coordinated action of the two forces.

So They Say

I believe Russia hopes the Chinese Reds will weaken themselves in another war like Korea so Russia can dictate to the Chinese Communists.—Sen. Alexander Wiley (R., Wis.).

Edson In Washington

By PETER EDSON

(NEA Washington Correspondent) WASHINGTON — (NEA) — So-called "Russian experts" are described by one member of the Washington diplomatic corps as "People with varying degrees of ignorance about Russia."

This apt characterization was never better demonstrated than in the four principal theories now being advanced to explain the recent upheaval in Moscow. These theories are:

1. Georgi M. Malenkov's resignation as Soviet premier was caused by the failure of Russia's farm policies, for which Communist Party Secretary Nikita S. Khrushchev—the new strong man and top boss—was really responsible.

2. Malenkov's promises to raise the standard of living for the Russian people and to work for "peaceful coexistence" with the rest of the world were repudiated by the Presidium of Council Ministers—alias the Kremlin gang.

3. Imminence of ratification of the Paris and London agreements by the western powers and resulting German rearmament forced the Presidium to adopt a tougher foreign policy. Malenkov and his softer policies were kicked out.

4. Soviet Russia is headed for military dictatorship. Evidence of this new trend is found in the appointment of Marshal Nikolai Bulganin as the new premier and Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov as the new minister of war.

WHILE A COMBINATION OF ALL these factors may have caused what happened, this fourth theory is now being discounted.

Premier Bulganin is not a regular army man. He entered the Russian army with the rank of lieutenant general and worked his way up the ladder from there to marshal. His real assignment by Stalin was as Communist Party overseer of the Red Army's officer corps. He is, therefore, regarded as more of a figurehead administrator for Communist Party boss Khrushchev.

There were formerly three major forces in Russia—the Communist Party, the police and the army. A combination of any two could rule Russia. With the liquidation of the former secret police chief Lavrenti P. Beria, however, the power of the police has declined. The police are now believed to be controlled by the Communist Party—not the army.

Khrushchev apparently gained his present control through an alliance with the Red army leadership, represented by Marshal Zhukov, President Eisenhower's World War II buddy in Berlin.

THIS KHRUSHCHEV-ZHUKOV DEAL is regarded as best as an uneasy alliance, and not a permanent solution of leadership.

Once he solidifies his own position, Khrushchev might later kick Zhukov out. If mistakes are made, and policies must be changed again, Bulganin could be made the goat and removed from power.

There is no evidence on whether the Red army leaders could operate as a political group. They never have so operated.

The Red army leadership is considered predominantly Russian nationalist in character. It is interested primarily in protecting the Russian motherland from enemies who would rush in at the first sign of weakness.

THE CONTINUING FIGHT FOR leadership in Moscow is, therefore, seen as a fundamental conflict between Russian nationalists and the international Communists, whose goal is world revolution and world domination.

These international Communists look upon Russia and the Red army as the instruments for achieving world revolution. Thus far, the Communist Party has always controlled the Red army.

There is some speculation that the Red army leaders might not want to see the Communist Party control ended. Such a collapse of international communism would destroy Communist leadership in the satellites. It would leave Russia at the mercy of the countries all around her.

The great danger to the United States is this: that, in their inability to solve their own internal leadership problems, the Communist Party leaders and the Red army leaders might turn to foreign adventure to achieve unity, and so blunder the world into a new war, just as the kaiser and Hitler started World Wars I and II.

Former President Of Panama To Face Trial For Homicide

PANAMA —Ex-President Jose Ramon Guizado must stand trial March 21 on homicide charges in connection with the machine-gun slaying of his predecessor in office, President Jose Antonio Remon.

The National Assembly voted 48-1 to indict Guizado during a four-hour session Wednesday night highlighted by an impassioned declaration of innocence from the accused. The Assembly is the only body which can try a president. If convicted, Guizado could be sentenced to a prison term of from 10 to 20 years.

Guizado's outburst came as special prosecutor Jose de la Vega told the lawmakers he would prove at the trial that the price for killing Remon was between $75,000 and $80,000, part of which was paid by Guizado.

Rising from his seat in the hall and gesturing with both hands, Guizado shouted into an Assembly microphone:

"What is being done to me is the greatest infamy in the world. It is an infamous plot. I am innocent. I swear it by God and before the graves of my parents."

Remon was machine-gunned Jan. 2 as he chatted with friends in a pavilion at the Juan Franco race-track, four miles from the city. Guizado, the first vice president, was sworn in as president six hours later.

The Assembly impeached Guizado and ordered his arrest Jan. 15 after Ruben Miro, an attorney,

Geographic Oddities

Spanish conquistadors under Hernando Cortes not only explored most of Mexico and much of the Southwest United States nearly a century before the Pilgrims landed in New England, the National Geographic Society says, but his captains also discovered, far off the west coast of Mexico, some of the loneliest islands in the world—the Revilla Gigedo group and the isolated atoll now named Clipperton Island.

North America's three heaviest animals are the bison, the Kodiak or Alaska brown bear, and the Alaska moose. A bull buffalo (bison) sometimes weighs more than a ton; both brown bears and moose in Alaska have been recorded at more than 1600 pounds, the National Geographic Society says.

Japan's Itsuku Island, sacred to Shintoism, has no wheeled vehicles, says the National Geographic Society. Pilgrims and visitors who go there climb hundreds of stone steps to reach the summit of Misen Mountain where burns an eternal flame.

The elaborate decorations on the armor worn by knights of the Middle Ages grew out of the necessity for identifying the men behind their all-enveloping garb, says the National Geographic Society.

Gradually the coverings became works of art and a form of personal advertising, with family crests and mottoes, fur designs and symbols, and intricate patterns of precious metal worked in relief or engraved.

At the height of armor embellishment, civilian fashions were copied, and even lines of stitching represented.

The English word "coney" is derived from the Dutch "konijn," rabbit.

Tax Cuts Will Be Postponed

WASHINGTON — Chairman Cooper (D - Tenn.) said that the House Ways and Means Committee will act next week on President Eisenhower's request to postpone about three billion dollars in scheduled tax cuts.

The committee is expected to approve by a big margin, possibly on Monday or Wednesday, Eisenhower's recommendation for a one-year postponement of these tax cuts now set automatically for April 1.

(1) From 52 to 47 per cent in the corporation income tax rate, amounting to about two billion dollars annually; and (2) about one billion dollars in excise tax rates on automobiles, cigarettes, liquor, gasoline, beer and wine.

Little opposition to the extension of present rates has been voiced either in the House or Senate.

Meanwhile, it was reliably reported, key Democrats planned a strategy huddle Saturday to consider two questions likely to be much more explosive:

1. A proposal by some Ways and Means members for a drive now to cut individual income taxes for everybody.

2. A move by others to seek repeal of a controversial tax cut on income from dividends, included last year's Republican-sponsored general tax revision bill.

NO-SCRUB WAY TO GLEAMING FLOORS

Everybody has heard of the housewife who kept her kitchen floor so clean you could eat off it.

We never met her. But we know how she did it. She did it the hard way—on her hands and knees—with a scrubbrush. Today, you can keep your linoleum or asphalt tile immaculate with only a fraction as much effort.

Just apply Glaxo, the wonderful floor coating. Its water-clear finish seals out dirt so well you can clean it in a flash. Glaxo eliminates waxing, and you put it on only about twice a year.

Bleeder Saved By Blood Donors

DENVER — "Am I here? Thank God . . . He told me I would be."

Mrs. Doris Grayson was waking from a marathon 3½-hour operation late Wednesday. For seven months the Weatherford, Tex., mother had known of the impending surgery on her right lung. And she had feared it.

Doctors at National Jewish Hospital describe the 36-year-old woman as a "bleeder," female counterpart of the male hemophilia. Once she is bruised or starts to bleed, it is difficult to halt the flow.

To complicate matters, her blood is type O negative, found in only 5 per cent of people.

She was admitted to the Denver Hospital last July for treatment of tuberculosis. Doctors found her condition caused her to bleed from the right lung. When other treatment failed, they decided on surgery.

Mindful that certain blood—like Mrs. Grayson's—loses its coagulant factor in 30 minutes after it is taken from the veins, they called for volunteer donors with type O negative.

Denver area Masonic lodges offered help, and those few with the corresponding blood type stood by as Mrs. Grayson went into surgery. Nine donors gave one pint of blood each during the operation. Three others were used later.

Doctors said Mrs. Grayson is "doing satisfactorily."

Ceremony Unites Virginia Barbeau, Donald Lachapelle

Miss Virginia Barbeau, Green Bay, and Donald Lachapelle, Escanaba, were united in marriage before Rev. Stephen Schneider, O. F. M., at St. Joseph's Church at 9 a. m. Feb. 12. Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. James Barbeau, Green Bay, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Lachapelle, 912 1st Ave. N.

Attendants for the couple were Miss Arlene Cayer as maid of honor and Clark Lachapelle of Minneapolis as best man.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Robert Barbeau, of Gladstone, was attired in a tan tulle suit with pink accessories. Her corsage was fashioned of pink roses and white carnations. Honor attendant for the bride wore a grey suit with blue accessories complemented by a corsage of yellow daffodils.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served the bridal party and immediate families at the Stone House. A reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents from 5 p. m. to 9 p. m.

They left for a honeymoon trip to Minneapolis where they will make their home. Mr. Lachapelle is attending Gale Institute. The bride attended Green Bay West High School, while the bridegroom is a graduate of St. Joseph High School.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Pat Barbeau, Green Bay, Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Lachapelle and family, Minneapolis, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Pilon, Nahma, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Pilon, Ensign, and Mr. and Mrs. John Thibault, Iron Mountain.

Daughter Born To William Pajnichs

Mr. and Mrs. William Pajnich of Ensign welcomed their first child Thursday, Feb. 17, a daughter, who was born at 3:50 p. m., at St. Francis Hospital. The baby weighed 7 pounds and 12 ounces. Mrs. Pajnich is the former Virginia Cobb and the grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Cobb of Stonington and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pajnich of Ensign. The new member of the family is the first grandchild of Ben F. Young of 242 Lake Shore Drive, Escanaba.

TOO SPEEDY

Watching average players, the uninformed spectator might well get the idea that the first few plays in a hand are unimportant. These plays are usually rattled off with remarkable speed, and only toward the end of the hand does anyone—declarer or defender—take time out to think. By then, however, it may well be too late—irreparable damage may have been done.

Here, for example, is a hand that was lost by declarer at Trick 1:

Group Will Be Honored At Washington Dinner

Five Delta Country girls chosen as good citizenship representatives of their schools, will be guests of Lewis Cass Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution at its annual Washington Birthday dinner Monday, Feb. 21, at 6:30 p. m. at the Delta Hotel.

They are Mary Alice Cameron, Gladstone, Janet Christiansen of Perkins, Helen Hallinen, Rock, Janet Shananquet of Ensign and Mary Ellen McMeekan, Escanaba. They will be presented to members of the Chapter by Miss Alice Potter, chairman of the Good Citizenship Pilgrimage. Good Citizenship pins will be awarded by Mrs. John J. Mitchell, regent. The program will include a short resume of D. A. R. activities by Mrs. James E. Frost and vocal numbers by Mrs. Corey Harbarger who will be accompanied by Mrs. M. H. Garrard Jr.

Arrangements are in charge of Mrs. J. H. Jackson, Miss Potter and Mrs. Merritt T. Kasson.

State Contest

The girls, who were chosen by their classmates and faculty members on the basis of dependability, service, leadership and patriotism are eligible to compete in a state-wide contest. A $100 government bond is the award for the state winner.

Mary Alice Cameron of Gladstone is the 17-year-old daughter of Supt. and Mrs. Wallace Cameron. She is vice president of the senior class, a member of the Senior Girls' League, typing editor of the annual and was chairman of the junior prom. Her chief interests in school deal with music. She has played the flute in the Senior Band six years, has been a member of the Girls Trio school chorus and did solo work and was junior editor of the school annual. An honor student, she will attend Western College of Education in Kalamazoo, majoring in occupational therapy.

School Activities

Mary Ellen McMeekan is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McMeekan, 710 S. 14th St., Escanaba. She has been a member of the Latin Club, Dramatic Club and Theatrical Club of Escanaba High School two years. She became a member of Mortar Board her junior year, was a member of the Library Club two years, acting as library assistant and was active in the Horizon Club. She has a role in the senior class play this year. She also was on the school debate team as a junior. She is a member of the National Honor Society and served as president of Mortarboard the first semester of the present year. She also was president of the Horizon Club, secretary of the Citizenship Department and was Home Room secretary. She has been a cheer leader five years.

She is a past honored queen of Job's Daughters, Bethel 9, and a member of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church Choir and Senior Youth Fellowship.

She plans to enter St. Luke's School of Nursing in September.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Skonieczny of Milwaukee are the parents of a son, Thomas Patrick, who was born Feb. 15. The infant is the first boy in the family of three daughters. Mrs. Skonieczny, is the former Betty Miron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Miron, Cornell Rte. 1.

After Jess Carmichael left, Johnny looked down at the heap of dimes and pennies and quarters, then scooped them up in his hand. He spread them out on the bed, turned them all up, "heads" up, "tails" down. He examined them carefully, then turned them all over, so that the "tails" were up.

He sighed wearily.

The phone rang, startling Johnny. He scooped it up. "Yes?"

"Fletcher," a harsh voice said, "you want that gorilla friend of yours in one piece?"

"You haven't got Cragg," Johnny retorted.

"Oh, no? If he's with you, put him on the phone."

"All right," said Johnny. "Suppose he isn't here. What do you want from me?"

"I'll call you back. I ain't havin' this call traced."

The phone went dead. Johnny hung up and scowled at the phone. He scooped up the coins and looked around the room. He walked to the bathroom and saw the washing Sam had done the day before. On a sudden impulse he took down from the shower curtain rod one of the socks and poured the coins into it, shaking them down into the foot. He tied a knot into the top half of the sock, then taking down the other socks, threw the entire pile into a corner of the bathroom.

The phone rang out in the bedroom. He went back and picked it up.

"All right," said the harsh voice, "leave your hotel and walk down Forty-fifth to Seventh Avenue. A Lucky-Clover taxicab will come along and—"

"Oh, go back to Peekskill," snapped Johnny, slamming the receiver back on the hook.

The phone rang again instantly. Johnny jerked it off the hook. "Go to Buffalo, then."

The voice of James Sutton exclaimed, "I say, Fletcher, that's no way to talk to a man."

"Oh, you!" growled Johnny. "Somebody else just called and I thought he was calling back."

P. T. A. Meeting
NAHMA—The meeting of the Nahma Parent Teacher Association was held Tuesday evening at the school. A short program explaining the founding and purpose of the P. T. A. was presented by Dell Rosa Vinette. Winifred Pomeroy, Joan Labadie and Connie Groleau.

Following the business meeting, a social hour of cards was held. High honors were held by Mrs. Henry Turan, 500, Mrs. Harry Smith, sheephead, and Algot Segerstrom, cribbage.

Lunch was served in the school dining hall. The lunch committee for the March meeting is Mrs. Kenneth Lavigne, chairman, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Hartman, Mrs. Joe Krutina and Mrs. Anunson.

March of Dimes
The students of the Nahma Rural Agricultural School collected $54.60 for the March of Dimes. This amount has been sent to Hagie Quarnstrom, county superintendent of schools, who will forward it to the Polio Foundation.

Card Party
The second in a series of card parties, being sponsored by the Hustlers Home Economics club for the benefit of charitable organizations, was held at the William Rogers home Monday evening with Mrs. Rogers and Mrs. Joe Pilon as co-hostesses.

Honors in 500 were held by Mrs. Vital Hebert, first; Mrs. Joe Krutina, second, and Mrs. John Erickson, consolation. Mrs. Art Larsheld received the traveling award, and the guest award was presented Mrs. Ed Olson.

Seventh Birthday
A group of children enjoyed a party at the Kenneth Lavigne home Tuesday on the occasion of Darrell Lavigne's seventh birthday.

Games were played with awards being presented Peter Moore, Steve Girard, Darrell Lavigne, David Beauchamp and Yvonne Gouin. Lunch was served from a table decorated in the valentine motif.

Guests attending were Kathy Hanson, Yvonne Gouin, Charles and Harlan Fisher, David and Dennis Beauchamp, Steve Girard, Peter Moore, Hazel Blowers and Rickey Schafer.

Briefs
Miss Teresa Deloria has returned to Milwaukee after a weekend visit with her mother, Mrs. Antone Deloria.

Mrs. Lew Bramer, Mrs. Wallace Bennette and Mrs. Roland Bramer attended a Girl Scout leaders meeting in Gladstone Tuesday.

Mrs. Antone Deloria and son Calvin, and Teresa Deloria of Escanaba spent the weekend at the Bill Oman home in Escanaba.

Thomas Tobin was taken by ambulance to St. Francis Hospital Tuesday.

Mrs. William Rogers, Mrs. James Krutina and Mrs. Roland Bramer attended a stork shower for Mrs. Robert Sturdy at the home of Mrs. Richard Way in Groos Wednesday evening.

"I'd like to talk to you," Sutton said. "I wonder if you could come over to my digs at the Barbizon-Waldorf."

"Can't right now. Busy."

"I'll make it worth your while."

"I'll try to make it in about an hour."

"All right, but sooner than that if you can. This may be important. It's something about Lester Smithson that I don't think you got at the Harvor Club."

"Oh, you know I've been there?" Sutton chuckled. "You scared Whitlesey. An hour, then?"

Johnny agreed and hung up. He left the room and rode down to the lobby. Lieutenant Madivan sat in a far corner, reading a newspaper. Johnny looked around, saw Eddie Miller near the desk and walked up to him.

"Gosh, Mr. Fletcher," Eddie said. "I tried to warn you, but Mr. Peabody spilled it."

"I know, the louse."

"Mr. Cragg phoned from Peekskill. He said he was in jail up there."

"He isn't any more. That's why the cops are here. Sam broke out of jail."

"Ouch!" said Eddie. "Then Mr. Cragg is really in trouble?"

"He is, and there isn't a thing I can do for him right now. He's somewhere between Peekskill and here."

"If I see him first, I'll try to give him the high sign. If only Peabody . . . which reminds me, I know the reason he's so sore. Some crook got into his room and swiped one of his suits, he claims."

"Serves him right."

"He thinks you stole it."

"Me?"

Eddie hesitated before replying. "I don't think you did, but Peabody's really burned. He even searched your room."

"I didn't sell his old suit," Johnny said, accenting the word "sell." But it's an idea. If he doesn't lay off me, I might do something like that one of these days . . . Now if Sam happens in while I'm gone, try to tell him I'll get him out—somehow. He can't stand jail."

Johnny stepped up to the desk. He laid a $5 bill and a single on the desk and said to the clerk, "Have you got a roll of dimes and two rolls of pennies?"

The clerk was somewhat surprised, but took the bills. "I think I can spare them."

A short time later he got off the bus, walked to Fifth Avenue and entered the Chateau Pelham. The switchboard operator recognized him instantly. "Miss Cummings? I'll see if she's in." She spoke into the phone, then nodded to Johnny.

"You may go up."

Johnny headed for the elevator, then J. J. Kilkenny came into the lobby. He passed the switchboard operator and came up to Johnny just as the door of the automatic elevator opened.

"Have you been announced?" Johnny asked sarcastically.

The pride of the AAA stepped into the elevator.

"I got words to say to you," "Why don't you write me a letter?" asked Johnny. "Then I can read and appreciate your words at my leisure. Right now I'm pretty busy."

Kilkenny punched the button for the fourth floor and the car went up. Kilkenny sized up Johnny. He was obviously making a tremendous effort to contain himself.

"I notice," Johnny pointed out, "you knew what floor."

"I know," Kilkenny said tautly. "I know a lot of things."

Rubirosa Sues To Shed Barbara
CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP)—The Dominican Republic's cafe society diplomat, Portirio Rubirosa, has begun divorce proceedings against Woolworth heiress Barbara Hutton on incompatibility grounds.

Rubirosa's attorney, Eneas Savinon, published notice of the action in the local press Wednesday. The notice requests Barbara to tell the court her current address, a requirement of Dominican law when the party sued for divorce lives outside the country.

Miss Hutton was last reported staying in Honolulu. Savinon said if she does not reply, the case will come up for hearing on March 10.

Miss Hutton and Rubirosa were married in New York Dec. 30, 1953, but separated three months later. It was his fourth marriage and her fifth. Rubirosa has recently been the constant companion of actress Zsa Zsa Gabor.

Your Income Tax Primer
You Get Break On Dividend Income

(Fifth of 12 articles)
By RICHARD A. MULLENS
Written for NEA Service

The tax break which stirred up the biggest controversy in the new tax law is the one given to taxpayers who receive dividend income.

It is not easy to understand just how this change in the law works, but it will pay anyone with dividend income in 1954 to follow carefully the explanation given below. This article also tells how to report income from interest.

Suppose you own stock in a corporation organized in the United States. During 1954, you probably received a distribution from the corporation.

Most distributions by a corporation to its stockholders are taxable dividends. Occasionally, however, corporations make distributions which are non-taxable and do not have to be reported as dividends. Generally speaking, a corporation advises you when ever it makes a non-taxable distribution.

Under the new law, the first $50 of taxable dividends received by each individual taxpayer is excluded from income. That means it is not taxed.

On a joint return, each spouse is entitled to the $50 exclusion on dividends received by him or her.

Defendant Freed In Kidnap Trial

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—A Superior Court jury has found Daniel J. Marsin, 41-year-old welder, innocent of kidnapping Mrs. Evelyn Anne Smith and holding her in the Superstition Mountains for $75,000 ransom.

The defendant, who walked from the courtroom with his unconscious wife in his arms after the verdict was returned Wednesday, said he expected to be acquitted. He acknowledged, however, that he "was worried."

Marsin's tiny wife Lillian fainted in his arms as the verdict was announced. Marsin picked her up and carried her into an ante-room.

Marsin was accused of abducting the 24-year-old Mrs. Smith from in front of a Phoenix beauty salon last June 9 and of taking her to the Superstition Mountains, 50 miles east of here.

Mrs. Smith returned to her home unharmed on the evening of June 10. Her husband said he paid the $75,000 ransom. The money was recovered.

John Flynn, who defended Marsin, contended during the trial and in his closing argument that the state had failed to link important evidence to the defendant.

HERE'S HOW HYPOTHETICAL man and wife reported income from dividends and took new tax break on their joint return.

entitled to divide dividends between themselves, even though all the stock is owned by one of them, each spouse can exclude $50 or a total of $100 of the dividends received by them in 1954.

In non-community property states, the $50 exclusion applies separately to the individual income of husband and wife whether a joint or separate return is filed.

This exclusion can be claimed on either Form 1040A or 1040. If you file on 1040A, you only show in item 10 the dividends which exceed the exclusion of $50. On Form 1040, however, you report all taxable dividends and then subtract the exclusion on line 3 of Schedule J. See sample schedule.

Let's suppose that after subtracting the exclusion, you still have some dividends left over. The new law permits you to subtract from the tax you would otherwise owe, a credit equal to 4 per cent of any dividend in excess of the exclusion received after July 31, 1954. This credit cannot be claimed on Form 1040A. Do not use this return if you have dividends in excess of the $50 exclusion.

The easiest way to compute the credit is to follow Schedule J of Form 1040. There is one filled out with this article to show you how it's done.

Note that the credit cannot exceed the lesser of the tax that would otherwise be due from you, or two per cent of your taxable income. And remember, the dividend break does not apply to dividends from foreign corporations, including Canadian companies, or from any mutual savings banks or building and loan associations. These dividends are reported in Schedule A on Page 2 of Form 1040.

The new law taxes interest in much the same way as the previous law. All taxable interest must be reported in Schedule B on Page 2 of Form 1040, or in item 10 of Form 1040A. Most interest you receive is taxable.

However, if you own any bonds or securities issued by a city or state, the interest on these is not taxed by the Federal Government. The interest on many United States bonds issued prior to March 1, 1951, is wholly or partially tax-exempt.

Aorta Replaced By Orlon Tube

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP)—The field of medicine and textile joined hands 18 months ago seeking a substitute for the human heart's principal artery. Wednesday it was announced that orlon tubing may soon take the place of defective aortas in the human body.

The tiny knitted tubing was developed here in the School of Textiles at North Carolina State College in cooperation with two Charlotte, N. C., heart specialists, Dr. Paul W. Sanger and Dr. Frederick H. Taylor.

Prof. W. E. Shinn, head of the college's department of knitting technology, worked with a modified neekie knitting machine, and produced the orlon tubing in the exact dimensions of the human aorta and its accompanying aortic arch. The tubing offers hope to older people afflicted with aneurism, a permanent abnormal dilation of a blood vessel.

Fashioned from a DuPont "miracle fiber," it will not dissolve in body chemicals and gives promise of pulsing the vital blood through the human body for an indefinite period.

Artery replacements taken from deceased persons and stored in the nation's three artery banks have been used successfully but the supply is inadequate. The arteries in some cases are subject to deterioration.

Advertising helped make the difference

"GET A HORSE!"—that taunting cry aimed at early motorists—has disappeared from our American language. Today's auto makers produce more cars, and better cars, with horses to spare under the hood.

But to mass produce millions of autos, manufacturers must be able to sell them by the millions. Only by advertising can a manufacturer talk to millions of people at one time.

ADVERTISING TELLS the story of new cars . . . and helps sell them. The more it sells, the more must be made—keeping the production lines and the jobs going. The result: better cars at prices more people can afford to pay. Advertising helped make the difference—in the car you drive, and in our American way of life.

Harkin Spent Youth In Peninsula, Became Top Conservationist

MARQUETTE — The recent death of J. Bernard Harkin, Canada's first National Parks Commissioner and a man internationally known in the fields of wildlife conservation and administration of public lands, brought to mind the fact that his formative years had been spent here.

Known as "the father of Canada's national parks system," Harkin was 79 years old when he died in Ottawa.

Graduated From Marquette

Harkin was born in Ontario, but lived in Marquette in his youth and graduated from Marquette High School before launching into a distinguished and colorful career.

He went to Ottawa where he became a reporter. By the time he was 25, he was city editor of the Ottawa Journal. A member of the Parliamentary Press Gallery, he was chosen by Sir Clifford Sifton to be his private and political secretary, passing from this position to the permanent civil service.

Around 1911, the Canadian Parliament passed the Dominion Parks and Forest Reserves Act, and a new branch of the Department of the Interior was created to manage these Crown lands. Harkin was chosen to head the new branch.

He knew Canada and its West, and he knew that such great beasts as the bison and the elk, such graceful wild creatures as the antelope and the big horn sheep were threatened with the fate of the passenger pigeon unless some measures were taken to stop their slaughter. He had been given power to deal with these matters and lost little time in going into action.

Harkin brought organization out of the former chaos in establishing the parks and in preserving the wild animals. He drafted modern regulations under the headings of game protection, fire protection, construction of essential buildings and park facilities and he established a warden service and planned to throw the areas open to the public.

Envious eyes of promoters were turned on the newly created national parks. They wanted not only part of the Crown-held lands, but wanted also to develop potential water power for private profit. Harkin fiercely resisted these attempts at encroachment on the park preserves and succeeded in attaching important support. His determined doctrine was "What we have, we hold."

Worked With George Shiras

Canada's national parks became a going concern in 1911, about five years before the establishment of a national parks system in the United States. American park builders came to Ottawa to consult Harkin, and there was fruitful collaboration between Harkin and his opposite number in the United States.

Harkin, as Canada's representative, worked with another Marquette man, George Shiras 3d, in drafting the famous Migratory Bird Treaty which helped preserve waterfowl populations that were then diminishing because of heavy spring and fall gun pressure in the United States and Canada.

Active In Scout Organization

As an outdoorsman, Harkin was deeply interested in the Boy Scout organization and was chairman of the publications advisory committee for Canada. In recognition of his services he received the Silver Wolf award, the highest decoration given by the Boy Scouts Association.

Many other deserved recognitions came to Harkin. A mountain in Canada is named for him. The Vermeil Medal, the second highest presentation of merit possible by the French government, was awarded him in recognition of his unceasing efforts towards the conservation of wildlife and of his valuable services in building up the administration and fame of national parks. Harkin also was elected a fellow of the American Geographical Society, one of the foremost institutions on the continent for the advancement of science. Field & Stream magazine named him a member of its conservation council, issuing this state ment at the time: "Harkin . . . is perhaps the foremost conservationist in Canada . . ."

North Areas Will Be Cut To Aid Deer

Timber cuttings on thousands of acres of state-owned lands in Northern Michigan will provide an immense amount of food for deer this winter.

Much of Michigan's winter timbering operations is carried on near deer swamps where tops and limbs of trees are left after the cutting for hungry whitetails.

Inspire New Growth

Though too early to know how much cutting will be done this winter, state records show about 10,000 acres are cut each winter.

In addition to making immediate food for deer, the cutting operation also inspires new growth. Sunlit openings in the forest give young sprouts chance to push up and provide more food for deer.

"The increased demand for aspen in papermaking is making it possible to improve wildlife habitat on thousands of acres that we considered hopeless only a few years ago," says B. C. Jenkins, in charge of Northern Michigan habitat management.

Young Trees Available For Spring Planting

About 15,000,000 young trees are available for spring planting from the Conservation Department's three northern nurseries.

The planting stock is sold for reforestation and Christmas tree production purposes.

Jack pine seedlings, red and white pine seedlings and transplants and white spruce seedlings and transplants are available. The stock will be ready for shipment in late April and May.

Generally each year, nursery supplies of some species are exhausted long before the shipping dates arrive and foresters urge haste in ordering. Price lists and order blanks may be obtained from the Forestry Division, Department of Conservation, Lansing.

Winters Ain't What Winters Was In U. P.

NEWBERRY — Winters in Michigan ain't what they used to be. Joe Stephenson, assistant chief of the Conservation Department's game division, tells one about the time in 1916 when he and another game warden were working between the Sault and Newberry. In those days, there were precious few cars—no roads to drive them on—and wardens chased violators by train and on foot.

Non-Paying Clientele

Stephenson and Nelson arrived at a little way station in their travels that afternoon and, with a blizzard blowing up, decided to spend the night there. The hotel was awful, Stephenson remembers, and had only one winter virtue: the rats, mice, lice and other non-paying clientele had to hibernate. The place was too cold even for them.

After signing in, the pair went to bed under thin blankets. Of course, there was no central heating and they shivered through the night, getting no sleep. In the morning, Nelson got up and lifted the shade to see what the day was like. The window, he saw had no glass in it.

While downstairs paying their bill, a winter-toughened teamster opened the hotel's front door and entered in a swirl of wind-driven snow. His long beard and mustache were crusted in ice and his face and clothes were covered with layers of snow.

"Well," said Nelson, eyeing the man, "what room did you have last night?"

Bay De Noc Most Popular Ice-Fishing Spot In U. P.

An Estimated 1,000 Shacks Dot Ice There

Story and Photos
By KEN LOWE

GLADSTONE — Once the "wall-eye capital of the world," Bay de Noc still is more than holding its own in fishing circles.

The bay's latest claim to fame is as an ice-fishing center. It is easily the most popular spot in the Upper Peninsula for ice fishermen. Some estimates place the number of ice fishing shanties scattered over the entire bay at 1,000.

Winter Tourist Attraction

What's more, the bay promises to become a winter tourist attraction as a mecca for those anglers who like their fishing on the frigid side. Besides the Delta County sportsmen—and women—who are fond of wetting their lines in the chilly waters, anglers from the Iron Mountain-Kingsford area have been driving over to try their luck in the bay. Other fishermen have come all the way from Wisconsin, Chicago and Lower Michigan to enjoy the bay's offerings.

Principal reason for the bay's popularity is its cooperative perch and walleyes. Mrs. Ebba Nevins, Masonville, who has followed the Bay de Noc ice fishing picture closely, states that exceptionally large perch are being taken from shanties located off Masonville and Gladstone. Some of them, she said, "are as big as walleyes." As for walleyes, Mrs. Nevins reported catches of this species have been "better than average." Not Fraught With Chills

Contrary to what the uninitiated might think, ice fishing is not a sport fraught with chills and the threat of pneumonia—at least, it isn't a Spartan sport the way it's practiced by most anglers on Bay de Noc. In fact, that particular fishing fraternity does most of its angling in downright comfort.

Practically all of the fishing is done from shanties, almost all of them equipped with stoves, and some of them furnished with pretty fancy heating units. In some cases, standard shanty equipment includes a battery radio and a card table—just in case the fish aren't biting as regularly as they should be.

Much Individuality Shown

The shanties show a great deal of individuality. Some are nothing more than old refrigerator crates. Others are built of tarpaper or plywood. Some of the more elaborate are made of aluminum. Most of the ones in Bay de Noc

Gunner Gets Record Female Canvasback

The largest hen canvasback bagged since the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service started keeping flyway records fell to a gunner in the Lower Potomac this past season, according to the Wildlife Management Institute.

Weighing in at three pounds, 10 ounces, the bird was two ounces heavier than the previous top hen and missed beating the heaviest drake canvasback by the same margin. The bird had been banded as an adult in September, 1950, at the Delta Waterfowl Research Station, operated by the Wildlife Management Institute at Delta, Manitoba, for its owner, the North American Wildlife Foundation.

Michigan's Bounty System Criticized By Specialist On Predator Research

(The following article is condensed from a paper presented at the 19th North American Wildlife Conference by David A. Arnold, predator research specialist for the Conservation Department. The paper was published recently by the Wildlife Management Institute.—Ed.)

By DAVID A. ARNOLD

In the past three decades, the Conservation Department's attitude towards predators has evolved from one of wanting as few as possible of these animals to one of striving for control only when and where needed. The high recreational potential of most Michigan predators is becoming more apparent each year and the present policy is to promote these sports as much as practicable.

While northern Michigan sportsmen insist on bounties for protection of all game species, the coyote, wolf and bobcat bounties are paid primarily because these predators are thought to be limiting the number of deer. All Michigan timber wolves (all six or eight remaining families) are in the Upper Peninsula. The bulk of the coyote population is also in this northern area. The current thinking of many of these people (in the Upper Peninsula) is a reflection of the Conservation Department's views of 30 or more years ago.

Making Last Stand

Coyotes, wolves and bobcats admittedly all kill deer. Wolves undoubtedly can be serious enemies of the whitetail when they exist in sufficient numbers, although recent work in Canada by de Vos and Omand casts some doubt as to the ability of timber wolves to keep deer populations in check to a degree which will hold them below the limits of the winter range. Michigan's wolves are currently making a last stand, and, even though individual wolves may take a number of deer, by no stretch of the imagination can they be accused of controlling deer numbers. While coyotes are common and bobcats are not rare, the deer-killing propensity of these two species is low. The numbers of coyotes have remained fairly constant for the past nine years, a period through which the deer herd has varied with range limitations and the severity of winters.

The deer situation in the Upper Peninsula today is critical. Not because of predators, as advocates of our present bounty system claim, but principally because of the deer herd itself. At the present time, approximately one-third of the deer yards are browsed beyond their capacity to feed all the deer through the winter. This one-third of the winter range is classified as in poor condition. One-third of it is in medium condition, or just able to support the number of wintering deer, and the remainder is in good condition. However, many of the good deer yards have no deer using them and there may be some as yet unknown characteristics of the yards which make them unsuitable for deer.

In Michigan there is another complicating range factor, which is also occurring in other deer states. The forest is growing beyond the productive stages for deer. This, coupled with the growing deer herd, further increases the need for action to reduce the number of wintering deer. To the ecologist, controlling predators to increase an overabundance of deer is basically unsound. Not only will predator control do no good, but if effective reduction were accomplished, the only result could be to make a bad situation worse.

Red Fox Argument

Just as the coyote, wolf and bobcat are thought of by sportsmen to be the chief enemies and controlling agents of deer in northern Michigan, the red fox is commonly accused of decimating

Sault, Ontario, Region Also Has Knotty Deer Problem

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont.—Deer hunters who have been discussing Michigan deer problems pro and con this winter will be interested to learn that neighboring Ontario also is experiencing some trouble with its winter deer range in the Soo area.

Many Michigan sportsmen have hunted deer or moose in the Algoma bush country north of the Canadian Soo or fished the streams and lakes in the wilderness country. They are familiar with some of the areas described in this story.

Five Concentration Areas

"The reason deer are scarce in some areas of the Soo district is that there are already too many deer in those areas," declares District Forester A. J. Herridge of the Ontario Lands and Forests Department.

Conservation Projects By Scouts Tallied

Boy Scouts in Michigan completed 4,400 conservation Good Turn projects in 1954.

About 52,000 scouts and leaders participated in the work. Included were 1,423 soil and water conservation projects completed. Erosion was checked on gullies and streams, grass was planted on open lands and soil conservation lectures and exhibits were presented.

In the forestry division, 1,233 projects were completed. These included tree planting, woodlot improvement and fire prevention education work.

In fish and wildlife work, Good Turns included hedgerow planting, nesting box construction, brush piling and a variety of educational programming.

Conservation Court Cases Up During 1954

LANSING — A slight increase in the number of conservation court cases was noted in 1954, continuing a trend established during the last several years.

Conservation Department records show 6,068 cases were taken to court last year, 100 more than in 1953. In 1952, the courts handled 5,662 conservation cases. In 1951 the total was 5,406 and in the previous year 5,009.

"More people are going hunting and fishing these days," says E. E. Tucker, in charge of conservation law enforcement. "The slight rise in violations each year probably is only a reflection of that trend."

District Forester Herridge explains that, during the winter of 1952-53, members of the fish and wildlife staff mapped areas in which deer concentrate each winter in the Soo district. From this map, five concentration areas, or "deer yards," were chosen for study of food conditions for deer. This study was carried out during July, 1953.

Batchawana Deer Yard In an area of 44 square miles bordering Batchawana bay, north of Sault Ste. Marie, along east coast of Lake Superior, lies the Batchawana deer yard. Here food conditions were reported to be generally unsatisfactory for deer, and it was concluded that the supply of food, especially sugar maple and mountain maple, was not keeping up with the demand being exerted by deer. Average percentage of twigs browsed by deer was 50.7 per cent, the highest yet reported in Ontario.

In summary, it was found that in four or five important winter deer yards, conditions for deer were far from favorable. "As a result of the shortage of food, there may well be a heavy mortality," Herridge continues. "And what shape will they be in if they manage to survive? If they do pull through until spring, will this hard winter affect them? Yes, principally through the effects on reproduction in the herd," declares Herridge.

"It is well established that does in poor range never bear as many fawns as those in the better ranges. So the 1955 crop of fawns is bound to be light. That is why we say that deer are scarce in some areas because there are already too many deer in those areas!"

"To increase the numbers of deer, it will be necessary, first of all, to reduce their numbers and hold them down for three or four years to allow the range to recover. Then it should be able to support a greater number of deer than it is doing at present."

Four Farm Progress Meetings Scheduled In County

Many Phases Of Farming Are Up For Discussion

By J. L. HEIRMAN
County Agricultural Agent

Monday and Tuesday, Feb. 21 and 22, we will have four Farm Progress meetings. They are scheduled as follows:

Monday, Feb. 21 — Rock Lions' building, 1:30 p. m.; Bark River School, 8 p. m.

Tuesday, Feb. 22—Garden Community building, 1:30 p. m.; Flat Rock Town Hall, 8 p. m.

We are bringing to you a group of specialists at one time: William Cargill will cover Crops and Soils; Roy Skog, Forestry; Floyd Hicks, Poultry and Horticulture; R. T. Hartwig, Economics of Farming; Jack Little, Dairying; Ingrid Tervonen, Home Economics.

All will take part at the same meeting with important information. Make a date with your wife and attend one of the meetings.

Trees for spring planting are going fast. A letter from the Department of Conservation early in the week told us that some 3,000,000 trees were sold the first week in February. The selection of seedlings is not as great now because certain kind and sizes are sold out but there is still time to get some if you act now.

What is happening to farm population? We haven't got all the official figures taken in 1954 census work but it looks like a drop. We had 25 million farm people in 1950. Now, it is estimated that there are 21½ million. At the present time, about 13 per cent of the total population is found on farms. They are producing food for themselves and the other 87 per cent not on farms—a real responsibility.

The consumption of milk per person is going up. Dairy farmers are helping the cause by giving to an advertising program. It pays to advertise a good product such as milk. How close did we come to consuming the milk we produced in 1954? The production for the year was estimated at 124 billion pounds. A total of 118½ billion pounds was consumed during the same period. This does not leave too much to dispose of in foreign markets or store. If production in 1955 remains the same as 1954 and consumption trends keep going up, we will have no surplus in a matter of a year or two.

Some farmers are asking what the future offers in exporting food to other countries. Let's first back up and see what happened during the past few years. During the Korean War, demand for our agricultural products was good.

True Patriotism Has Its Start In One's Homelife

Patriotic love doesn't come ready made. It's something that we build slowly over the years, starting with childhood, says Dr. Elmer Knowles, parent education specialist at Michigan State College.

He explains that learning to love one's country is a chain reaction. He says a person will not love his country if he doesn't love his state. And in turn that person will not love his state if he doesn't love his community, his home and his parents.

So in this chain reaction of loving one's country enough to fight and if necessary give one's life for it, all the links in chain are important. But, says Dr. Knowles, the beginning link is for parents to love each other. This is the parents' foundation on which they base the love for their children. If children are loved, they will feel secure.

Parents must also respect their children as a reflection of their love. Then the children will develop self respect. A child should also be helped or disciplined so he will learn to develop his abilities. Dr. Knowles feels it is important to praise a child for what he does and what he is. From this praise a child will develop his own set of values—values about himself as a person, about parents, teachers, friends, his neighborhood, his state and finally his country.

Dr. Knowles sums it up this way. Whether a child reaches adulthood as a worthwhile citizen depends on whether he is loved and learns to love his fellow men.

Announce County 4-H Winners At State Spud Show

Delta County 4-H Club members received top placings in the State Potato Show at Michigan State College last week.

Six blue and four red ribbons were awarded to the ten samples from the county.

Blue ribbons went to: James, Leslie, Rodney and Kenneth Schire, Gerald Ford and John Knaus, Jean Ford, Vernon Ford, Clinton Sundquist, and David Woodard received red ribbons at the show.

The State Potato Show was part of the annual Farmers' Week program.

exported in 1951 and 1952. The year 1953 saw a 30 per cent drop in exports but during the last year, it has been climbing again. The outlook for 1955 is that exports will increase about 10 per cent over 1954.

Potato growers, how are you set on seed for planting this spring? If you haven't bought certified seed for the past two years, you should get some. Good seed is very important to assure a good crop. You can have a fertile piece of land, you can use lots of barnyard manure and commercial fertilizer, you can do a good job of spraying to control diseases and insects but if the seed was poor to start with, you cannot come up with a good crop. Do not wait too long to find your seed supply.

Can Sterile Taps Boost Sap Flow?

Michigan State College researchers are out for bigger and better quality sap runs in the sugar bush.

Forester Putnam W. Robbins and Bacteriologist Ralph Costilow started tapping on Jan. 10. They have tapped 15 days apart and will continue boring until March 1. In that way, they'll be able to compare early and late tapping, and how temperature affects the flow.

The scientists think bacteria and molds have a lot to do with reducing the sap run—by plugging up the tree's cells. So they are making the tap hole completely sterile. They burn the tap area by lighting alcohol. Then, while it's still burning, they bore a hole with a sterile bit. A sterile spile is inserted and an attached rubber hose drains into a 5-gallon container. The scientists realize that most sugar bushmen won't go to all this trouble. But they do believe substances can be found to sterilize the tap after it is driven into the tree—if the organisms seriously hurt production.

The researchers are contrasting results from the sterile tap holes with the normal way of tapping. They're using a new plastic bag as a substitute for a bucket. The bag manufacturer claims that the sun penetrates the transparent plastic and helps reduce the number of bacteria in the sap. Dr. Costilow will analyze the sap to find out.

The study is being made under a $16,200 grant from the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Poor Cows Milk Is Nutritious

CHICAGO — "Underprivileged" dairy cows have proven themselves to be the equal of their "socialite" sister cows when it comes to converting plant matter and water into rich, nourishing milk.

The dairy cows subsisting "on greener pastures" will need less land for their feed supply but fail for fail, the bovine gal from the wrong side of the tracks who grazes on badly depleted farm land will still give milk just as nutritious as that "well kept woman" across the way.

These facts were learned in a 10-year soil fertility study conducted at Michigan State College, sponsored in part by the National Dairy Council with dairy farmer funds allocated by the American Dairy Association. Conclusions of the study were released as feature of this year's celebration of the Centennial of Michigan State College, the nation's oldest land grant college.

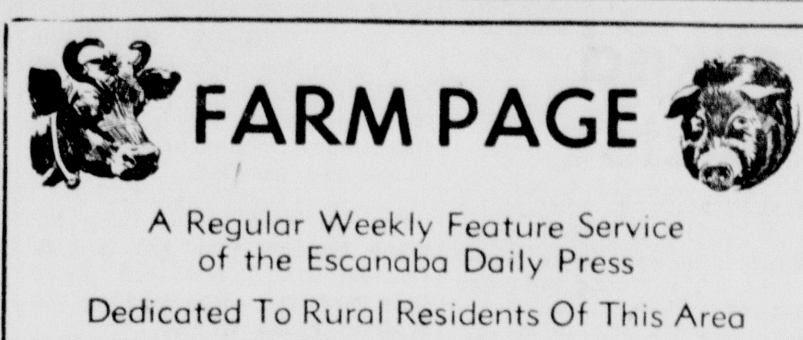

Still Difference
Two herds of dairy cows, running through four generations of each, were involved in the study. The herds were maintained on a 20-acre farm with badly depleted soil. One herd was fed from an area the soil of which was treated with nitrogen only; the other from an area in which the soil received generous amounts of mineral as well as nitrogen fertilization.

Very little difference could be determined in the nutritive value of the crops raised to feed the separate herds, though the enriched soil yielded more feed per acre.

Regular chemical analyses of the crops, as they were fed, and of the milk and blood of the cattle were made. Samples of the milk were taken regularly to determine the actual feeding value of the milk.

Conclusions On Milk
Here are some of the conclusions about milk:

- 1—The consuming public need not be concerned about the quality of milk produced by cows that subsist on feed produced on poor land.
- 2—The milk produced by both herds contained as much or more protein, fat, and mineral constituents as are commonly found in the milk you buy.
- 3—The amount and kind of amino acids in the milk proteins were similar in the milk supply from both herds; though one herd's feed came from fertilized soil, the other herd's feed from unfertilized.

Will Present '55 Farm Facts

Farmers and farm homemakers are cordially invited by County Agricultural Agent J. L. Heirman to the Farm and Home Progress meetings that will be held this coming week in four places in Delta County. Scheduled for Monday, Feb. 21 at 1:30 p. m., will be a meeting at Rock at the Lions Club building and at 8 p. m. a similar meeting at the school at Bark River. On Tuesday, Feb. 22, there will be a meeting at the Garden Community Building at 1:30 and at 8 p. m. at the Flat Rock Township Hall.

Mr. Heirman has arranged for the Michigan State College Extension Specialists of the Upper Peninsula to present a fast moving, illustrated program of practical methods of increasing net farm income (take home pay) in 1955 and future years.

Mr. Heirman says that the theme of these meetings, "In Fifty-Five, Plan to Thrive," is more than just a catchy slogan. It is a real challenge to farm people—a challenge to take a good look at their farm business. In this program will be ideas for increasing farm income or lowering operating costs.

Successful farm operations and family living are the result of planning; planning that may need to be revised from time to time to meet changing conditions; planning that takes advantage of every new development that has practical application to the farm business and home.

The 1955 chapter of "Farming in the Upper Peninsula," as it affects farm costs and the cost of living for the farm family, will be reviewed by R. T. Hartwig, Agricultural Economist. He will use colored slides to illustrate the trends in farm operating costs and how they may be reduced. Both food marketing methods and eating habits are changing.

Bossy's Digestive Tract Regarded As Wonderful Machine

Did you know that cows actually digest meat?

It's so, claimed Dr. C. F. (Shorty) Hoffman, as he spoke at a Michigan State College Farmers' Week program. This is the way the M. S. C. scientist explained it: The cow is blessed with a fermentation vat (one of a cow's four stomachs), where microbes live and ferment the feeds she eats.

Since more than 50 per cent of the dry matter in a blade of grass is fiber, it cannot be digested by the cow's stomach juices. It has to be digested by the enzymes produced by the microbes — mostly bacteria.

As soon as the hay enters the fermentation vat, the bugs hunt for the cracks and crevices, where the forage. The digested material is absorbed by the bacteria and built into new compounds within their own bodies.

Some of these well-fed bacteria are eaten by the large microorganisms known as protozoa. The remaining bacteria and the protozoa commit suicide by jumping into the highly acidic true stomach. That's where the cow's own enzymes take over the digestion.

"Since the protozoa are animals," concluded Dr. Hoffman, "it is apparent that a cow eating a roughage ration actually uses some meat."

GLADSTONE

Klondike Derby Here Saturday

Between 40 and 50 patrols are expected to participate in the annual Klondike Derby being sponsored Saturday at the Days River Sports Park for Scouts of the Red Buck District.

A course typical of the Klondike area will be laid out at the Sports Park and the Boy Scouts will be required to solve problems involving use of compass, first aid, knots, etc., at various points or stations on the course.

The problems test the alertness and ability of the boys to respond to make-believe emergencies.

All equipment for the derby will be taken to the public parking lot across from the city hall where it will be picked up and transported to the Sports Park by a Cloverland Milling and Supply Co., truck.

Robert Sjoquist will be master of the day and is to be assisted by members of the Explorer Troop.

Rubinstein Disliked By Fellow-Convicts

By EDWARD BEACHLER
LEWISBURG, Pa. —(NEA)—Serge Rubinstein was hated by fellow prisoners when he served a 30-month term in the Federal Penitentiary for lying to his draft board.

An informed source close to the prison said:

"Rubinstein's killer might very well be someone he knew here in Lewisburg. He was a braggart and overbearing and made big promises to prisoners for little favors.

"They resented him and didn't trust him. Feeling was high, especially among military prisoners who were court-martialed overseas while he stayed home and made millions and got only half the sentence they did."

During his vacation at the "model" prison in the White Deer Mountains, multi-millionaire Rubinstein gained the distinction of being the most thoroughly disliked guest in its history.

That covers a varied list including Al Capone, Waxy Gordon, Moe Annenberg, Judge Manton and Alger Hiss.

Reports that Rubinstein greased his way into special prison treatment were discounted in these words:

"If Rubinstein had been given preferred treatment, there would have been a riot among the other prisoners."

The rumors were that he skipped out to El Morocco and other gay spots in New York "out of uniform." They were revived after he was bound, gagged and choked to death last week in his New York home.

James V. Bennett, Federal director of the Bureau of Prisons, said the special treatment rumors had been "fairly investigated at the time and found untrue."

Retired Warden George W. Humphrey, reached by phone in Perham, Minn., where he now lives, said:

"Rubinstein never was out of prison while I was there. He lived exactly like every other prisoner, likely in a single cell at first and then in a dorm towards the end of his term. He was a run-of-the-mill prisoner and didn't give us much trouble."

There were no tears shed here over Rubinstein's violent demise. Those who knew him weren't boasting. Prison officials and inmates remembered him as "wise guy", who boasted that he played fast with women and money.

From the day he arrived on May 5, 1947, until the day he was freed on April 25, 1949, Serge was scorned by fellow prisoners.

They knew his record well:

How he had lied to his draft board, been chased out of Russia by the Bolsheviks, booted out of France for selling the franc short, wrecked the Japanese yen, defamed his mother in a phony illegitimacy claim to bolster a Portuguese passport.

But the most galling thing for many inmates was that the 38-year-old wizard amassed more than $6,000,000 while ducking the draft in World War II.

Once prisoners reportedly seized Rubinstein and held his head in the commode. But mostly they ignored him.

"There was nothing good about him," said one person who knew him well here. "He wasn't any genius in prison. Other prisoners wondered how he ever made so much money."

"They didn't trust him. He would make inmates wild promises of a job when they got out if they would do little favors for him, like cleaning up around his bed. He was always looking for a soft way of getting out of things."

Rubinstein developed a persecution complex and frequently asked for psychiatric interviews. He thought he was going to die, worried about his financial dy-

RAPID RIVER ROCKETS — Above are the Rapid River Rockets who will invade Holy Name gym Saturday night to battle Coach Tom St. Germain's Crusaders. Sporting a terrific scoring average and a record of 12 wins against four defeats, the Rockets will be seeking their third straight victory over the Escanaba Parochial School team, having defeated the St.

Holy Name Will Play Host To Rapid River Saturday

The Holy Name Crusaders, still short-handed because of the temporary suspension of a large portion of the varsity squad for breaking training rules, will return to action Saturday night in a home stand against the Rapid River Rockets.

Coach Tom St. Germain will use the same starters with the same reserves on the bench, as he did against Stephenson last weekend. In that game the Crusaders built up a big lead in the first half but faded in the third and fourth quarters and lost a 71-65 contest.

John Berrigan, the Upper Peninsula's leading prep scorer with 370 points, will be at center with Denis McGinn and Jim Greenwood at forwards, Frank Katrinski and Cliff O'Donnell at guards. Tom Willis, Bob Moraski and Ron Bink will be on the bench.

Berrigan is averaging 26.4 points per game this season. The junior pivotman has never scored less than 22 points in a game and his highest output was 37 against Bishop Baraga of Marquette. He hit 28 against Stephenson last week, including 14 straight free throws.

The loss to Stephenson broke an eight-game win streak put together by the Crusaders and leaves Holy Name with a season record of 10 wins against four defeats.

Coach Roger Carlson's invading Rockets boast the highest scoring average in the Upper Peninsula this season. Rapid River has averaged 77.31 points per game while winning 12 against four defeats.

The Rockets play a fast-breaking game and use a pressing defense. Coach Carlson employs a two-plateau system of play. The varsity game will get underway at 8:30 with a preliminary between Bee teams set for 7.

Knicks Again Prove Jinx For Fort Wayne

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Fort Wayne Pistons are leading the western division of the National Basketball Assn. by 4½ games today but they are push-overs for the New York Knickerbocker.

The Knicks defeated the Pistons for the sixth straight time Thursday night when they won 93-86 at Miami, Fla., to keep within 2½ games of the Syracuse Nationals, eastern division leaders who turned back the Boston Celtics 107-93 for their fifth successive triumph.

The Rochester Royals again proved they were the Philadelphia Warriors' No. 1 cousins, losing 78-73 at New Haven. The victory was the Warriors' fourth in as many nights over the Royals.

In extending their current winning streak to six, the Knicks moved out in front by 26 points at the end of the third period. The Pistons surged within three points with 45 seconds remaining only to have the Knicks take command again. Ray Felix paced the Knicks with 20 points, one more than Carl Braun.

The Nats, who meet the Knicks in a home-and-home series this weekend, led the Celtics at half-time by 19 points and had a 32-point margin early in the third period. The Celtics, paced by Bob Cousy and Bill Sharman gradually closed in only to have the Nats pull away again. Dolph Schayes was high for Syracuse with 29.

The Warriors rallied in the last half for their triumph. Three free throws by Paul Arizin, after Bob Davies was tagged with a pair of technical fouls in the fourth quarter, gave Philadelphia a lead it never relinquished. Arizin was high with 22 points, a figure matched by Rochester's Tom Marshall.

Hawks At Stambaugh Saturday Night For Exhibition Contest

The Escanaba Hawks, second place team in the Northern Michigan - Ontario Hockey League, will play an exhibition game at Stambaugh's outdoor recreation rink Saturday night at 7:30.

The game was arranged by Ben Artwich, the Hawks' stellar goalie who lives in Stambaugh, and playing-coach Mark Olson. All proceeds will be turned over to the Stambaugh Red Wings to help boost that team's financial status. The Wings are a member of the Northern Hockey League which also includes Rhineland, Ironwood and Eagle River.

The Hawks will travel to Stambaugh at their own expense for the exhibition clash which is expected to draw one of the largest hockey crowds in recent years in Iron county.

Haney Hopes Servicemen Will Give Pirates Help

By FRED HANEY

Pittsburgh Pirates Manager HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—When a team finishes in eighth place, it is pretty hard to talk in glowing terms about next year. I do think, however, we will be much stronger than last year, with two or three boys such as Dick Groat returning from service.

Our biggest problem is in the outfield. We're set at only one spot, center field, or wherever Frank Thomas plays. We have fine reports on the kid we drafted, Roberto Clemente.

Last season we could have won a few more games with a long hit here and there. We left an awful lot of runners on base. We

From the excellent showing made by the Upper Peninsula Golden Gloves boxers in the Milwaukee Journal semifinals Tuesday night it can be seen that the novice field in the recent U. P. tournament here was one of the best in history. Of the eight novice champions who won U. P. titles here, six moved through the semifinal round in Milwaukee. That means that the U. P. will be represented in six of the eight novice championship fights in the Milwaukee Arena on Saturday night.

The many fans who saw this year's U. P. tournament agreed it was one of the best ever. The novice field was so strong this year that many outstanding fighters who would have topped crowns in normal years fell by the wayside. Bob Dahlstrom of Marquette and Tom L'Huillier of Soo looked good enough to win the 135 novice crown but failed to make it. Vic Sopina of Escanaba appeared a good bet in the light heavyweight class but failed to get through as did scrappy George Hurley, 147-pounder.

The U. P. fighters in Milwaukee, who battle under the Escanaba banner because they won their championships here, have a good chance to carry off the novice team championship. According to observers in Milwaukee at least four of the six will be favored to win their title bouts Saturday night.

The competition is a lot tougher, but the U. P.'s two open division candidates, Harvard Lancour of Manistique at 126 and Brian Mastaw of Soo at 160, are capable fighters and can't be counted out of the title picture. Lancour is a smart, strong boy with real determination while Mastaw's terrific punch makes him dangerous against any opponent.

Upper Peninsula fighters, who are handicapped year after year because of actual ring experience, are always big favorites with the Milwaukee fans because of their outstanding efforts in the Journal tournament. And with boxing taking a stronger hold in the U. P., you can look for better and better showings by the Peninsula champions in the big Wisconsin tourney in the future.

Advance Ticket Sale Increase In Baseball

The Associated Press

Major league baseball clubs can look forward to a prosperous 1955 on the basis of advance sale of tickets.

With only one or two exceptions, and one of those is the New York Yankees, the clubs reported an increase in advance sales over 1954 in a survey by The Associated Press.

The increase is in line with the over-all jump last year, when the attendance climbed 9.7 per cent over the preceding season on a turnout of 15,935,881.

Yanks Are Short

The Yankees' advance is in excess of $900,000 but they are about 10 per cent off last year's figures. A week ago, the Pittsburgh Pirates had advance sales of $326,811 compared with $328,214.

Both the world champion New York Giants and the American League titleholders, the Cleveland Indians, are well satisfied. The Giants ticket sales have passed a record half-million dollars whereas the entire advance up to the opening day in 1954 was only $322,000.

The Indians said they do not keep comparative records but that sales are running ahead of last year when the club did around a million dollars in advance sales.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, benefiting from clever promotions, are at the $600,000 mark, almost 15 per cent higher than a year ago.

Requests are coming in so fast at the new home of the Athletics in Kansas City that the club has not had time to strike a total. But officials said the advance sale already has surpassed the 304,666 attendance for the entire season last year in Philadelphia.

Sentinels Beat Calumet 8 To 3

MARQUETTE — Fighting to gain a post-season playoff berth, the Marquette Sentinels last night defeated the Calumet Radars, 8-3, to move into a third-place deadlock with Portage Lake in the Northern Michigan-Ontario Hockey League before 1,714 fans at the Palestra.

Bill Lindstrom, Doug Peterson and Gail Lawrence each scored two goals for the Sentinels.

Jack Pinder played an excellent game in Marquette's net, kicking out 35 shots. Clyde Berryman stopped 29 for Calumet.

Southside Hawks Tip Puckchasers By 7-6

Jerry Hansen with three goals and Charles Martin with two led the Southside Hawks to a 7-6 victory over the Central Puckchasers in the Junior Hockey League.

John Brown accounted for four of the Puckchasers' goals.

Gophers Engage Wolverines In Feature Big Ten Tilt Saturday

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—A muscle-stacked sophomore just hitting his stride, and a seasoned senior with a deadly touch, clash Saturday afternoon as Michigan meets Big Ten leader Minnesota in a nationally televised basketball game. (CBS).

The sophomore is Michigan's Ron Kramer, a converted football end who is described by one Michigan coach as "the best athlete in the Big Ten."

The senior is Minnesota's Dick Garmaker, top-ranked scorer in the Western Conference.

Their battle will start at 2 p.m. (CST). Both men stand 6-feet-3 and weigh over 200 pounds—but there the similarity ends.

Garmaker, who has become experienced, graceful and deft in the forward position is the conference's leading active scorer. He has netted 263 points in 10 games for an average of 26.3.

Kramer until last week was 24th among Big Ten scorers. Since then he has turned in two 28-point games to jump into 10th place. His sudden spurt accounted for victories over Purdue and Northwestern.

Kramer's season scoring average is 14.5, but in Big Ten play he is hitting at 18 points a game. He's a rugged rebounder.

Minnesota, which is eyeing its first championship in 18 years has moved down the opposition for an 8-2 conference record, but Iowa is a pressing second with seven victories and two losses. Illinois follows with 6-3.

National Champs And Olympic Jumpers Will Compete At Pine Mtn.

IRON MOUNTAIN—Six members of the 1952 United States Olympic team and three 1955 national champions head a list of 36 ski-jumping stars who have been selected as candidates to compete in the Olympic team tryouts here February 25-26-27.

The select three dozen, announced today by Guttorm Paulsen, of Chicago, chairman of the selection committee, will compete for six berths on the 1956 Olympic team which will compete in the winter games at Cortina, Italy next year.

Members of the 1952 Olympic team who will be here are Art Tokle, of Chicago; Art Devlin, of Lake Placid, N. Y.; Billy Olson, University of Denver; Keith Wegeman, Steamboat Springs, Colorado; Ralph Bietila, of Ishpeming, Mich.; and Wilbur Rasmussen, of Negaunee, Mich.

The three national champions on the tryout squad are: Rudy Maki, of Ishpeming, Class A; Jack Hooper, of Iron Mountain, Class B and Ragnar Ulland, of Seattle, Class C.

Others named to compete in the three-day classic are:

Steamboat Springs, Colo. — Corky Heid and Marvin Crawford.

Salisbury, Conn. — Roy Sherwood.

Middletown, N. Y.—Bern Biukstao.

University of New Hampshire—David Field.

Madison, Wis. — Bob Leeman and Dick Jacobson.

Duluth, Minn. — Len Johnson, Joe Novack, Jerry Lewis and Larry McTavish.

Eau Claire, Wis.—Ted Lenner, Dale Severson.

St. Paul, Minn.—Joe Ryan and Ed Longhenry.

Ishpeming, Mich. — Coy Hill, Jack Bietila.

Detroit, Mich. — Earl Hill.

Iron Mountain — Kingsford, Mich.—Dick Rahoi, John Bednarz, Reuben Hamari, Paul Jacobs and Willy Erickson.

Servicemen on leave who are automatically eligible to compete are: Jerry Anderson, Navy, Iron Mountain; F. Rogers, Navy, Eau Claire, Wis.; Sigred Malvik, Army, St. Paul, Minn. and Jay Barrus, Air Force, Salt Lake City, Utah.

In addition to the above-mentioned 36, about 75 other jumpers from all parts of the United States will be here to compete in the 20th annual Kiwanis tournament and the U. S. Central Ski Association championships which will be held in conjunction with the Olympic tryouts.

Social Outcast Is Favored At Hialeah

MIAMI (AP)—Trainers for other horses agreed today Social Outcast is a top contender for Saturday's $140,000 Widener at Hialeah but refused to concede he is a cinch to win it.

The Alfred G. Vanderbilt star was an early 8 to 5 betting favorite for the mile and a quarter feature. He went a mile in 1:38 3-5 in a Thursday workout.

The Hasty House Farm's triple entry of Hasty Road, Mister Black and the grass-running Stan were 5 to 2 in the early line.

The Widener will be broadcast and televised nationally (CBS) from 3:45 to 4 p.m. (CST).

Tony Trabert Seeks National Net Title

NEW YORK (AP)—Tony Trabert, still determined to prove himself the best tennis amateur in the world and then cash in as a pro, opens his bid for the national indoor championship tonight at the Seventh Regiment Armory.

Top-seeded after the withdrawal of U. S. grass courts winner Vic Seixas, Trabert plays little known Ray Antignat of Brooklyn in the first round.

Hamilton Richardson Jr., a Davis Cup veteran at 21 and seeded second, faces Frank Shields who used to be one of Uncle Sam's best.

Massive Golfer Leads Texas Open Tournament

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Massive Mike Souchak, of Durham, N.C., who fashioned a record-tying 60 and set a new nine-hole mark of 27, headed the field that moved toward the halfway point of the $12,000 Texas Open today still talking about a round that was fantastic even for this fantastic tournament.

Such things as a 62 winding up in second place, a golfer who shot three eagles on one round and still was three strokes out of the lead, a player 7 under par on five holes and 76 out of 167 bettering par made the round like something out of fiction.

Souchak's 60 tied the PGA record for 18 holes held by Al Brosch, Bill Nary, Ted Kroll and Tommy Bolt, and his 27 on the back nine of the 6,400-yard Brackenridge Park course cracked the record of 28 held by Ben Hogan, Toby Lyons and Bolt.

In second place was Freddie Haas, of Claremont, Calif., who had a 9-under-par 62 with a snowing putter, and third was John Barnum, of Grand Rapids, Mich., who shot three eagles and in one stretch of five holes was 7 under par. Next in line were Peter Allis, of Dorset, England, and Al Baldwin, of Toronto, Canada, each with 64.

Souchak shot his great round despite a bogey when he three-putted one green. But he had two eagles and almost equaled Barnum's feat with 7 under par in one stretch of six holes. "I putted like a demon," said the 210-pound professional of 2½ years. He used only 25 putts on 18 greens.

Barnum was a picture of frustration on the 18th hole—shortest hole on the course. He took a 5 because he landed in a creek with his tee shot. If he could have birdied the 155-yard, par-3 hole, he would have tied Souchak's 60. He was 10 under par coming into 18.

Power Advisory Report Is Filed

The City Council's power advisory committee of eight members has submitted a "Report to the City Council" signed by four of its members, and the report is now on file at City Hall. Six copies of the report were presented, one for each of the five Councilmen and one for the city manager.

City Manager A. V. Aronson today said that additional copies of the report will be made for distribution to interested persons.

When one of these copies is available to the Escanaba Daily Press the report will be printed in its entirety.

Comprising the report is a letter of transmittal, a premise and comparative table presenting information on the three proposed solutions to the power problem, and comments concerning related findings of the committee.

Only Four Sign
Signatures of Robert Losse, committee chairman, Fred Fisher, E. F. Zuehlke and Bruce Brackett are attached to the report.

Hugh Grow, secretary of the committee, stated in the report that "I must for present neither sign nor refuse to sign" "because people look upon my signature as representing the organization I work for and also because my organization has not had the opportunity to read the report." Grow is secretary of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce.

Other committee signatures not attached to the report were those of Andrew Skaug, Henry Wylie and Ed Kositzke. Secretary Grow reported that Kositzke is "presently in the hospital." Skaug and Wylie "did not care to sign," Grow reported.

The report covers three proposed solutions to the power shortage: 1—The contract proposal of Alger-Delta Electric Cooperative Association; 2—The feasibility of the city building its own generating plant; and 3—The private power possibility.

Commend Committee
"We hope that the report is of considerable value in having the City Council render the proper decision for the good of Escanaba, its citizens and the surrounding community," the committee concludes in its letter of transmittal.

On motion of City Councilman Robert E. LeMire, supported by Councilman Jacob Bink, the report was accepted with expressions of commendation for "exceptionally fine work done for and on behalf of the people of Escanaba."

Councilman Edward J. Cox asked Secretary Grow if all of the committee members had "taken part in making up the report," noting that it had been signed by only four of eight-man committee. Grow replied that the report had been compiled "from all the figures."

Later in the meeting Harold Gasman, Escanaba businessman and former councilman, directed attention to the fact that two of the four signers of the Power Advisory report were now or had been connected with a private power company. Asked to name them, Gasman named Zuehlke as a former Upper Michigan Power Company employee, and Fred Fisher as now employed by the Upper Michigan Power & Light Company.

Gasman at first named Losse as a private power employee, but immediately excused himself when he was informed that Losse is employed by Harnischfeger Corporation.

Flight Of Planes Reported To GOC
A flight of about 20 multi-motored airplanes, traveling southwest at high altitude, was reported last night to the Ground Observer Corps in Escanaba by Albert Konkel, who resides about one mile south of Bark River.

Donald Wertz, Escanaba GOC supervisor, said the report from Konkel was transmitted to the U. S. Air Force filter center at Green Bay, where it was learned that Escanaba was the third to report the flight, which passed over the Bark River area about 8:30 p. m.

Konkel had first notified the sheriff's office, which then notified Wertz. The GOC supervisor said the organization welcomes reports from volunteers anywhere in the county.

Briefly Told
Held For Trial—Theodore Dugener, 45, of 1009 3rd Ave. N., is held in the Delta County Jail under $2,000 bond for appearance Feb. 23 before Judge Glenn W. Jackson in circuit court on a charge of statutory rape. He was bound over to circuit court following examination before Justice Caroline A. Nystrom. Dugener, father of 10 children, is alleged to have assaulted a 15-year-old Escanaba Township girl.

Optimism is often due to a shortage of worldly experience.

Field Says Poland Paid Him $50,000 For Wrong Arrest

LONDON (AP)—Hermann Field said today he spent five years imprisoned in a cellar in Communist Poland, and disclosed the Warsaw government has paid him $50,000 for wrongful arrest.

He insisted he is at a loss to explain the case of the "disappearing Fields," and said he was never a Communist or "an agent for anybody."

"I am not a Communist and never was one," he said. "Over the course of 20 years I have occasionally agreed with some of the policies for which the communist party said it stood. For instance, I was very much opposed to the rise of Hitler and was opposed to the occupation of Czechoslovakia by German forces."

Hewett Will Be Liquidated

The systematic liquidation of the Hewett Grocery Company was announced today by the surviving partners of the company, Mrs. Margaret Hewett Anderson and Mrs. Catherine Hewett Newton.

The branch at Manistique has been liquidated and branches at Escanaba, Ishpeming and Sault Ste. Marie will follow. A branch at Iron River was closed a year ago.

The company has been operating in the Upper Peninsula for more than 40 years. The partners announced the liquidation was decided upon because considerable capital would be required to modernize the company's operations.

Conrad Finstrom is the manager of the Escanaba branch of the company. He has been associated with Hewett's for 19 years. The operations in Escanaba will be liquidated in a couple weeks.

Aid For Addicts

LANSING (AP)—A Legislative Narcotics Study Committee recommended Friday that Michigan work toward the establishment of a hospital for the treatment of drug addicts.

The committee said it believed a State Narcotic Commission should be created to formulate plans for a drug addict hospital.

The 44-year-old Cleveland architect appeared at a London news conference 24 hours after his arrival from a rest period in Switzerland. Poland released him in October.

Four members of the Field family disappeared behind the Iron Curtain in 1949. Hermann's older brother, Noel, a former U. S. State Department official, and his wife were released recently from a Hungarian prison and chose to stay in Hungary. Noel's adopted daughter, Erica Wallach, has been reported in exile in Siberia. Hermann said that all through the five years he never knew Noel's whereabouts.

Looking For Job
Noel Field has been denounced as a spy on both sides of the Iron Curtain, but Hungary in releasing him said he was absolved. Testimony before U. S. congressional committees linked him to Alger Hiss and Communist cells in Washington during the 30s.

Hermann Field was asked today whether his brother Noel ever was a Communist.

"I do not know," Hermann Field said. "Since we were adult men we have seen very little of each other."

He said he still holds an American passport but has no plans to return there.

"I've lost my job in Cleveland," he explained. "Before pulling up stakes, I want to find myself a new position and a new home town."

No Immediate War Foreseen Off China By Navy Secretary

NEW YORK (AP)—Secretary of the Navy Charles S. Thomas predicts no immediate war in Formosa Strait because—as he puts it—for the first time in the cold war the Reds "came face to face with the harsh realities of sea power."

Thomas, in a speech Thursday night on the 160th anniversary of the Naval Supply Corps, said Formosa will remain a problem for the United States because it is a part of a "pattern" for Communist conquests.

Report $29,725 Utility Profit

City utility net profits totaling $29,725.23 for the quarterly period of Oct.-Nov.-Dec., 1954, were approved for transfer to the city general fund at last night's meeting of the Escanaba City Council.

A. V. Aronson, city manager, reported the electric utility's profit for the quarter was $39,925.17; that the gas utility profit was $775.21; and that the steam utility's loss was $10,975.11.

The city manager reported that the steam utility's profit record is better this year and the expectation is that it will turn over to the city about $7,000 at the end of the fiscal year.

Twelve bids to supply the city with transformers for the electrical department were opened and tabled for further study.

A motion establishing March 3 for public hearing on a proposed water main extension on 12th Ave. S., was adopted. The cost of the extension is estimated at about $9,000 by the city manager. The Escanaba Golf club will be permitted to pay assessment cost on 120 feet of main, although its property frontage is 530 feet, with the city paying the remainder so the project can go forward.

Council approved a recommendation of the Planning Commission that the width of 7th Ave. S. between 19th and 20th Streets be established at 80 feet.

Authorized City Manager A. V. Aronson to cash what bonds may be necessary to pay from Catherine Bonifas funds the amount needed to meet architect's fees on the proposed state office building. Now due is a bill of $9,000 from G. Arntzen Architect & Company.

Received a petition from property owners on N. 18th St. for installation of curbing, and referred it to the engineering department for the preparation of cost estimates.

Council made an offer of $5,000 to John Boyle for the city purchase of his storage warehouse in the 300 block, Ludington St., site selected for the proposed state office building. It also removed an industrial use restriction on a site on US-2-41 north of the Fence Company plant in which Boyle is interested as a location to build a new warehouse.

Party Control Big Issue In Detroit GOP Convention

W. Splimier, Wayne County Circuit Court Commissioner, for the Board of Regents of the University of Michigan, incumbent J. Joseph Herbert of Manistique is apparently unopposed. For the other vacancy the list includes William B. Cudlip, Detroit attorney; Edward N. Hartwick, president of the precinct organization; and Donald E. Johnson, Flint publisher. Sarah Van Housen Jones of Rochester is unopposed for renomination to the Board of Agriculture, governing body of Michigan State College.

A vacancy on the board is sought by Dale Stafford, publisher of the Greenville Daily News; Howard Beattie, Saginaw high school teacher; P. Eduard Geldhof, retired St. Joseph industrialist; Frank Merriam, Sanilac County farmer, and Mack Gould, St. Charles businessman.

HEWN FROM ROCK
The elaborately-carved temples and decorations at Ajanta and Ellora, in the Indian state of Hyderabad, were hewn from the solid rock by Buddhist monks, priests, and laymen, who worked by sun and torchlight for more than 1000 years on the job.

Flying Radar Fleet Arrives Soon For East Coast Defense

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—Continental Air Defense Command headquarters here announced today that the first plane in an East Coast fleet of flying radar stations will arrive March 1 at Falmouth, Mass.

It will be the forerunner of 30 Lockheed Super Constellations to be stationed at Otis Air Force Base there. No date was given for arrival of the remaining planes.

The initial craft will be flown from McClellan Air Force Base in California by Col. Oliver Cellini of Chicago, who will command the 551st Aircraft Early Warning and Control Wing at Otis.

The flying radar stations are designed to fly over the Atlantic. The Super Constellations—extending the radar warning net hundreds of miles out to sea—will be like the fleet of over-the-Pacific sentinels that has been operating from McClellan Air Force Base at Sacramento since last spring.

The radar planes at Otis Air

Force Base, each equipped with 5 1/2 tons of electronic equipment, will provide extra time for the Atlantic seaboard to deploy jet interceptors in event of enemy attack. There also will be extra time to get civil defense facilities into operation.

The air fleet will keep watch around the clock, and it is expected that it will cover the entire East Coast.

The ground radar stations now in operation have a maximum range of about 200 miles. They have blind spots that might let low-flying enemy planes sneak in unobserved, but the planes will have no blind spots.

The Navy is reported to be planning to put a number of radar picket ships at sea. But they, too, might miss low-flying enemy planes. Radar cannot bend around the horizon.

Briefly Told

Bark River Lions — The Bark River Lions will hold their dinner meeting Monday, Feb. 21, at 7 p. m., in the Methodist Church parlors.

Teamsters Meet — A special meeting to organize a credit union will be held by the Teamsters Local 328 Saturday at 7:30 p. m., at the Teamsters Hall. All members are urged to attend.

Hospitalized — E. J. Bawden, 330 S. 8th St., retired veteran city employee, is receiving treatment at St. Francis Hospital following a heart attack. His condition today was reported as "fairly good."

Open Saturday — The license bureau at the Chamber of Commerce is open all day Saturday, except during the noon hour, Hugh Grow has announced. The office will be open from 9 to 12 and from 1 to 5.

Name Omitted — The name of Mary Beth Whitburn, eighth grade student at St. Joseph's, was unintentionally omitted from the recent publication of the persons receiving honorable mention for essays written in connection with the Catholic Press Week liturgical display.

MIGHTY MILEAGE

With less than 6 per cent of the world's land area and about 6 per cent of the world's population, the United States has about 29 per cent of the world's railway mileage.

Jaycees Consider Home & Building Show At Escanaba

Members of the Escanaba Junior Chamber of Commerce are making plans for a Home & Builders Show to be held at the Fair Grounds exhibition building the last weekend in April, it was announced today.

No formal action was taken at the Jaycees meeting Wednesday evening at the Delta Hotel but President Jack Manning appointed a sales committee to make a survey of the merchants, builders and manufacturers to find if there is sufficient support for such a show.

Manning pointed out that other cities in Michigan have very successful home and builders show each year. Merchants of the entire area who are interested in this promotion are invited to write the Junior Chamber of Commerce or phone Jack Manning at 447. Definite plans will be made at a meeting to be held at the Chamber of Commerce office March 2.

Comprising the sales committee are Manning, Durcan, Cameron and William Gardner.
